WILLOW STREET (Lancaster Co.) — Don't let the youthful face of Mark Price fool you.

Despite his youth, Price holds a wealth of knowledge about the poultry industry. Mix that with ambition and enthusiasm, and one has an idea of what Price brings to the Lancaster County Poultry Association as its newly-elected president.

Price assumed the reins of leadership at the association's annual banquet held at Willow Valley Convention Center on Tuesday night. Also appointed is George Georges as vice president, Don Brubaker as treasurer, and Michele Stauffer as poultry ambassador.

Mark Price

A native of Long Island, N.Y., Price received his introduction to farm life when his father sold his chain of pet stores and purchased a Berks County farm.

"Farm life agreed with everyone in the family," said Price, whose sister Deborah Dietrich is now a 4-H dairy specialist for Berks County Extension.

On the 150-acre farm, the family raised cows, pigs, goats, and chickens. Price and his sister became heavily involved in 4-H clubs. His dream was to become a dairy herdsman, which he pursued when he studied dairy science at Penn State.

It wasn't until Price was a college junior that he became interested in a career with poultry. A professor took Price to the Southeast Poultry Exposition in Atlanta.

Impressed by the tremendous job opportunities, Price minored in poultry management during his senior year.

Penn State was also the place that Price met his wife-to-be Krista, who was from Northampton. The couple were members of the same honorary fraternity. As they worked together, the relationship progressed and the couple married a month after graduation.

The couple live near Philadelphia where Krista is finishing her last year in veterinary medicine at the University of Pennsylvania.

After their marriage, Price worked two years for Pennfield Feeds, servicing layers and pullets.

"I had good teachers at Pennfield who really took the time to

Time To Set Clocks Back

Early Sunday morning, Daylight Saving Time, that was in effect throughout the summer, officially returns to Standard Time. This happens at 2 a.m. Sunday, October 30. For that extra hour of sleep, turn your clocks back one hour before you go to bed on Saturday night.

Juniata Conservation District Presents Awards

MIRIAM WERT,
Juniata Co. Correspondent

MIFFLINTOWN, (Juniata Co.) — A liquid manure injection system was the main theme of the annual Juniata County Conservation District field day held recently on the Art Zug farm in Walker Township.

In charge of the event was Ann Harshbarger, the Juniata County district manager.

Douglas Beegle, PSU agronomy professor spoke on "Introduction to Nutrient Management Legislation" and gave many details concerning developing plans for management that will meet requirements. Farmers can develop their own plans with pre-training and passing of the exam. A management manual and other helps are available as guidelines, and the local conservation district office has information on this also.

PSU Agronomy Professor Lynn Hoffman gave compaction information and stressed the importance of compacting wet ground as little as possible. Tandem axles and larger tires of the flotation type are important, especially where it is necessary to go back over the same ground often.

At the field day, the conservation district also announced that Joseph and Sarah Tabb had been named as the 1994 outstanding small cooperator, and Gary and Shirley Imes as the outstanding large cooperator.

Joe and Sarah Guss Tabb have been on their farm since 1947. Sarah was born and grew up on this century award farm original-

SLIGHT LOSSES WERE SEEN IN CORN PRICES FROM ONGOING HARVEST PRESSURE AND THE POSSIBILITY USDA WILL RAISE ITS CORN PRODUCTION ESTIMATE. FAVORABLE WEATHER FOR COMBINES AND THE MAJORITY OF THIS YEARS CORN CROP WILL SOON BE FINISHED. The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

OCT. 31-NOV. 6, 1994

SAXOPHONE DAY, NOVEMBER 6.

A GOOD DAY FOR MUSIC

Two men born on November 6 made a great impact on the world of music. Adolphe Sax was a Belgian musician and inventor born in 1814, and John Philip Sousa, American composer and band conductor, was born in 1854. Sax, the eldest of 11 children of a musical instrument maker, invented the saxophone and a family of brass wind instruments for band and orchestra, the saxhorns. Sousa employed some of those instruments to create his stirring marches. After leading the U.S. Marine Corps Band for 12 years, Sousa formed his own band in 1892. The "March King" toured the U.S. and Europe from 1900 to 1905 and took on a world tour in 1910.The best known of his many pieces is "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Music is the universal language of mankind. — H W Longfellow

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Clothing zippers will wear better and last longer if you always close them before washing.

EARTHWISE

You can successfully clean your oven without resorting to toxic chemicals Sprinkle the bottom of a cold oven with water, then cover the grime with baking soda and sprinkle again with water Let soak overnight and wipe up in the morning Use a green "scrubby" pad to loosen stubborn spots Be sure to rinse and wipe up all the baking soda Or, try a citrus-based degreaser. It, too, works best if allowed to soak, and it leaves a fresh orange scent

CHOCOLATE BREAD PUDDING

1 cup soft breadcrumbs
2 ounces baking chocolate
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 1/3 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
2 eggs
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2/3 cup milk

Combine first four ingredients in a double boiler, cook until smooth. Add butter, remove from heat Beat eggs, add remaining ingredients Add to chocolate mixture. Cook over hot water until thick Bake in a greased 1½-quart baking dish at 350° F for 20 minutes

Makes 4 servings

OPINION

Where Is the Milk Surplus?

Any dairy farmer with some longevity will always make the following comment, "As long as I can remember someone has always cried out that there is a big surplus of milk." The same farmer will usually say that he beard his father utter the same words.

Is there really a surplus milk problem or are the surplus words just rhetoric to be used as a weapon to maintain low milk prices to area dairy farmers? Are these low milk prices designed to drive even more dairy farmers out of business?

What is surplus milk? To me, the best way to analyze surplus milk is to evaluate the amount of dairy products in storage by the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC).

I further understand that certain milk handlers may have additional problems on weekends or certain holidays, but by and large the milk is processed under normal conditions.

Actually, dairy farmers should be standing up and demanding a better prices for their milk. They should do this because for the second straight year the CCC has NO uncommitted cheese in storages. Actually the CCC is going out unto the open market and purchasing cheese to fulfill their commitments.

In a little over a year the product everyone said we would never get rid of has been reduced from 445 million lbs. in storage to less than 100 million lbs. and is decreasing all the time. This product of course is BUTTER. And, if certain people would get on the butter-margarine case then the storage of butter could be wiped out.

Powdered milk inventories have increased, but you probably thank Class III A pricing and the California make allowance for those inventories.

Now if there is no cheese uncommitted in this country, and with butter sales increasing, then why aren't dairy farmers receiving fair prices?

As Peter Seman would say, "The dairy farmers must wake up and support the real efforts to correct their inadequate milk prices."

Regardless of what anyone tells you the so-called self-help program ia neither designed or intended to give dairy farmers a fair price.

The only way dairy farmers will receive a fair price is the day when dairy farmers collectively stand up and say "We have had enough."

The average price paid to dairy farmers during 1993 in Federal Order #2 was $12.61 per cwt. In 1981 the price was $13.39. Are dairy farmers willing to accept lower prices today than they received 12 years ago?

Why don't you as a dairy farmer call the USDA at 202-219-0803, ask them what the cost of producing milk was in 1981 and what it is today, and then ask yourself why you just received $12.44 per cwt for August milk.

There was a time when there was some real concern regarding the price paid to dairy farmers. However, that time is quickly vanishing. Today the philosophy of many milk companies, dairy processing cooperatives and many government people has changed and the only concern is the volume of milk. In their eyes a satisfactory amount of milk at a cheap price equals prosperity. This prosperity goes to everyone except dairy farmers.

A fellow dairy farmer has gone into the livestock business. He said the following to me, "Arden, I know you said it was bad on the farms, but I never would have believed that it was as bad as it is until I visited several dairy farmers." He said, "You're right. It's a near disaster on so many farms and something has to be done soon."

My friend is right. Something has to be done and dairy farmers must stand up and demand changes now. Failing to do so will only send thousands more of dairy farmers into oblivion.

To Turn Clocks Back

This weekend we go back to standard time. That means at 2 a.m. Sunday, we turn our clocks back one hour.

This is a good time to check smoke detectors in our homes to make sure they are working and place new batteries in them. Remember, it will take animals a few days to adjust to the new time change.

You may want to consider making gradual changes involving chores with animals. Most poultry operations always keep their time clocks on standard time. This weekend would be a good time to check your clocks and make sure they are set properly for feeding times and length of daylight.

Remember, you never want to increase day length on growing pullets or decrease day length on laying hens.

So, do not forget to turn your clocks back this weekend. Otherwise, you may be one hour early for church.

To Manage Fall Alfalfa

Fall is here and the annual concerns of managing alfalfa fields during the fall are upon us.

The shorting day length and cooler temperatures tell the winter hardy varieties of alfalfa to develop cold resistance. During this hardening process, plants reduce topgrowth and increase the amount of carbohydrates they store in the roots.

This carbohydrate storage is important because in the spring these stored carbohydrates are responsible for the first six inches of growth. After that initial growth, photosynthesis in the new growth will produce the needed carbohydrates.

Some management considerations to help improve winter survival of alfalfa include maintaining good soil fertility and pH and planting the most disease-resistant varieties available with high yield potential. This will reduce stress and increase winter survival.

It is important to encourage the storage of carbohydrates and leaving enough plant growth or stubble to protect the crown.

To Consider Fall Cutting Of Alfalfa

During September and early October, weather conditions remained favorable for alfalfa growth.

Most fields are tall enough to harvest. However, when it comes time to harvest, it is important to understand the benefits and the risks to the crop if it is harvested.

According to Robert Anderson, extension agronomy agent, one of the key considerations is the impact that fall harvest will have on winter survival. If the alfalfa field has come into bloom, it should be harvested. Normally, alfalfa will begin new growth after reaching full bloom regardless of being harvested or not.

Newer stands are less susceptible to winter injury following fall harvest than are older stands. Belief is that the length of time since the previous harvest is more important than the actual date of the last harvest. If it has been at least 45 days since the previous harvest, further delay of harvest is not necessary.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "Enthusiasm is like a ripple in the water . . . it spreads."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT GOD DOES WITH FLAWED HELP

October 30, 1994

Background Scripture:
I Samuel 13
Devotional Reading:
I Samuel 15:22-26

I Samuel 13 is often used to illustrate the principle that disobedience to God causes dire consequences. But, although I believe in that principle, I have my doubts that this story is an example of it. As it stands, the story is somewhat confusing. Let's take a look at it.

In one of his first acts as King of Israel, Saul—the man who didn't want to be king— recruits an army of 3,000 men, putting one-third of it under his son, Jonathan. Saul's force of 2,000 was kept at Michmash, a town seven miles northeast of Jerusalem. Jonathan and his force of 1,000 men were keep at Gibeah/Giba. Up to this point, war had not broken out between the Israelites and the Philistines.

Then, apparently without his father's advance knowledge, Jonathan precipitates the revolt by killing the local Philistine garrison. In response, the Philistines muster a force of 30,000 striking a terrible fear into the hearts of the Israelites. At Gilgal, Saul is waiting with his forces. For seven days as he had been instructed by Samuel. At the end of the seven days, Samuel had not come as promised and Saul's army began to desert. In desperation, Saul decides to perform the ritual of peace offerings.

A REASONABLE RESPONSE?

No sooner had he done this than Samuel arrives and begins to berate Saul for having dared to perform the priestly function for which he, Samuel, was to have performed. Saul's response seems reasonable: "When I saw that the people were scattering from me, and that you did not come within the days appointed, and that the Philistines had mustered at Michmash, I said, '...I have not entreated the favor of the Lord'; so I forced myself and offered the burnt offering" (13:13).

Samuel's retort seems harsh: "You have done foolishly, you have not kept the commitment of the Lord your God..." For one thing, we have no record of a commandment from God forbidding Saul to perform a sacrifice. There may have been one, but the writer of I Samuel has not provided it for us. Secondly, it is by no means clear that it was forbidden for anyone but Samuel to offer sacrifices. In I Samuel 14:35 Saul does it without reproach and in II Samuel 24:25 King David does it Third, if, as Samuel implies, his delay was a test of Saul's faith, it would indicate only Saul's lack of faith in Samuel, not the Lord. After all, Samuel did not come when he said he would.

A HARSH RETORT?

There may be extenuating circumstances, not included in the text, that would justify Samuel's response. Otherwise, I suspect that what we have here is a case of professional jealousy. Ecclesiastical officials—priests, rabbis, ministers, bishops have often been jealous of their special religious prerogatives. Jesus ran afoul of the Scribes and the Pharisees because he sometimes failed to keep their rules and regulations and his ministry was dearly a threat to their exclusive religious authority. As a clergyman, I would have to acknowledge that Samuel's indignant response to Saul has a familiar ring to it.

The only saving grace I find here is that, although Samuel pronounces a harsh judgment upon Saul, God does not take Saul's kingdom from him at this time. He continues to use Saul for his purposes and, instead of sulking because he knows his dynasty will not last, Saul goes back to work at a job he didn't want in the first place. God could still use this flawed man-and us.

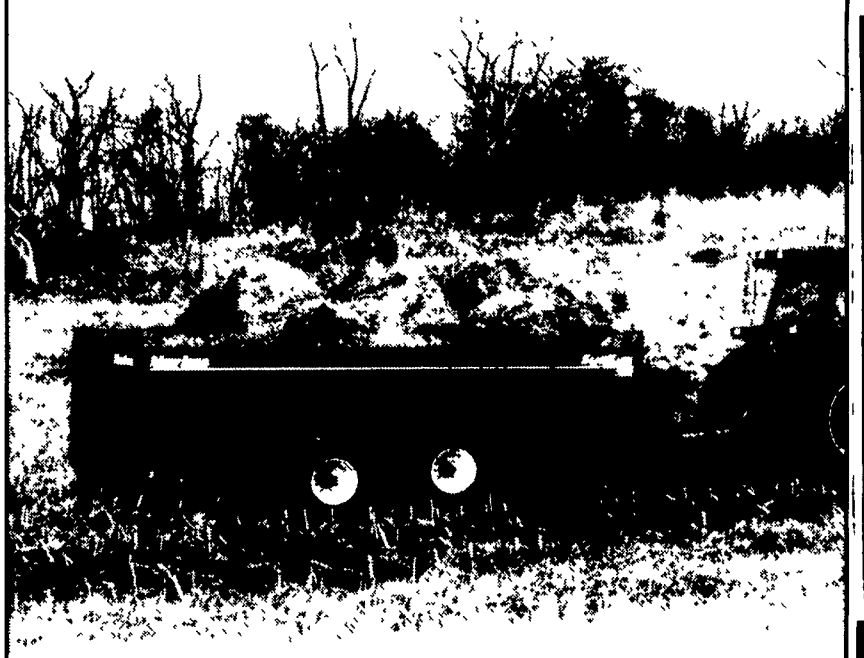
Tough Shredder



SideKick spreaders power through even the toughest manure.

With a new SideKick 3200 series side-delivery spreader, you'll power through tough manure when others shudder.

The planetary drive system and twin augers power through all types of manure from slurry to heavy pen pack to dry feedlot to gritty poultry litter.

The unique vertical expellers shred manure for a fine application. And the hydraulic expeller door makes the rate easy to control, too.

New Idea 3600 series box spreaders have earned a reputation for a long life and an exceptional spread pattern

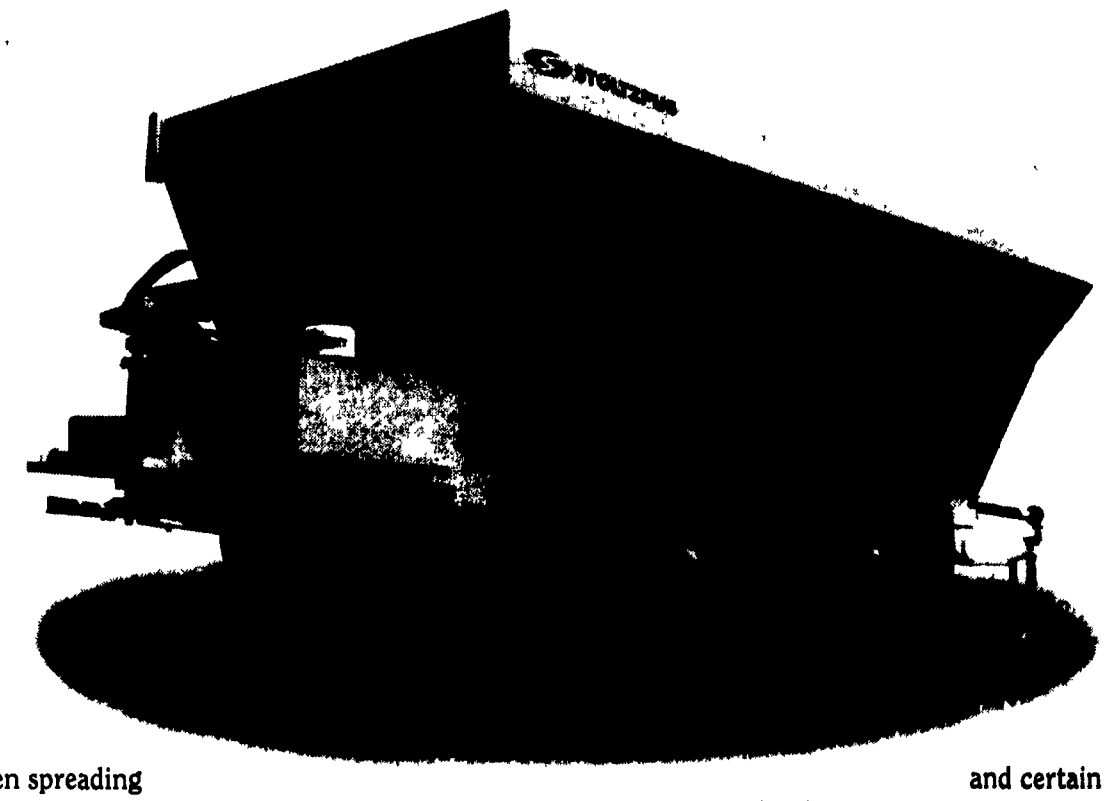
Sometimes You Need A Spreader Built Like A Tank.



When spreading stockpiled lime, for example. The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus, for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading. We call that performance. You'll call it terrific.

We hope you compare a Stoltzfus WLS with other spreaders. It makes us look even better. Price? Sure we may be a little more. But when you end up replacing cheaper units in a few short years, what have you saved? Stoltzfus quality always pays foritself many times over.

Just how tough is a Stoltzfus WLS? Plenty tough. Call today. We'll tell you where to find the dealer nearest you, and send you free literature to inspect.

PARADISE TOBACCO SALES
ATTENTION TOBACCO FARMERS

FIRST TOBACCO SALE: DECEMBER 5, 1994
Sale Every Mon., Wed. & Fri. Thereafter

When stripping tobacco, please grade 3 ways. Color grade. Please watch your moisture when stripping. Tobacco companies are saying they need this crop. If you have hail cut tobacco, color grade and make neat bales - it pays! Keep green out.

Strip your tobacco early! 609 tobacco companies are saying: get your crop on auction in December. They say they need PA 609 tobacco to blend with burley tobacco. This is good news for PA 609 as it is becoming known worldwide. Tennessee and Kentucky auctions open at Thanksgiving. Local tobacco farmers should bring some of their best tobacco to first sale, December 5th, with a full warehouse to attract buyers. There are reports tobacco buyers are telling tobacco companies in the south that they can buy cheaper on the farm. If this is true -- think twice!

DISCOUNTS ON BALE BOXES AND LATHE HOLDERS.
If ordered before November 1, 1994. You can order a bale box and take cost off tobacco check when you sell at Paradise. Cotton twine also in stock.

'Entertainment Farming' Educates Consumers About How Crops Are Grown

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

BUCKINGHAM (Bucks Co.) — Every year in mid October, central Bucks County produce farmer Bill Yerkes opens up the doors on his farm, rolls out the hay wagon, brings in the bluegrass band, and invites people from all over to see and enjoy his pumpkin festival.

None Such Farm Market's Annual Pumpkin Festival, held Oct 15-16, drew thousands of visitors to the farm for two days of pumpkin picking, hayrides, pony rides, bean bag tossing, face painting, a bluegrass band, and all kinds of food.

But along with this concept of "entertainment farming" comes the effort of educating an increasingly nonaware public about many aspects of farming, according to Yerkes.

While it may be hard for many traditional truck farmers to survive on wholesale prices for their products, Yerkes has other plans. In a recent interview with Lancaster Farming, Yerkes believes there are opportunities for truck farmers, if they can sell their produce retail and build up a sufficient customer base.

But first comes education.

"One of the big problems in a rapidly developing area as we have here in central Bucks and Buckingham specifically is that a lot of people don't have an opportunity to visit a working farm," said Yerkes. "And they're completely out of step."

Yerkes said one day, as he was cultivating and fertilizing his three acres of cantaloupe, a securities salesperson visited the farm. The salesman asked Yerkes, "Does cantaloupe grow below ground or above ground?"

Shrugging, Yerkes said, "If I didn't know any more about your business than you know about mine, then I'd be in deep trouble." Yerkes said the visitor was "a grown person, a 35-year-old man!"

To combat farm ignorance, year-round, None Such Farm keeps a careful schedule of tours from various groups in the community. Yerkes, who farms 217 acres at the central location with his brother John and family, invites many organizations onto the farm, including the local Buckingham Elementary School, various preschools, day care centers, kindergartens, churches and other organizations.

Ethel McCulloch, office manager of the farm, keeps a careful record of when the tour groups arrive and helps conduct the tours. Last week, a group of 4-year-olds from St. Paul's Growing Together Nursery School in Doylestown toured the pumpkin patch and saw the farm animals.

Yerkes also finishes out about 75 head of beef each year. Half of the meat is custom butchered for his farm market's freezer beef sales and the other half is sold to local processors.

At the farm, Yerkes tills about 350 acres altogether, including nine acres of strawberries, 10 acres of pumpkins, 3½ acres of broccoli and cauliflower, three acres of tomatoes, an acre of raspberries, one acre of peppers, eggplant, and zuccini, and grows 13 acres of oats, 3½ acres of alfalfa, 25 acres of clover/timothy for the steers, and 125 acres of field corn. He also grows about 120 acres of

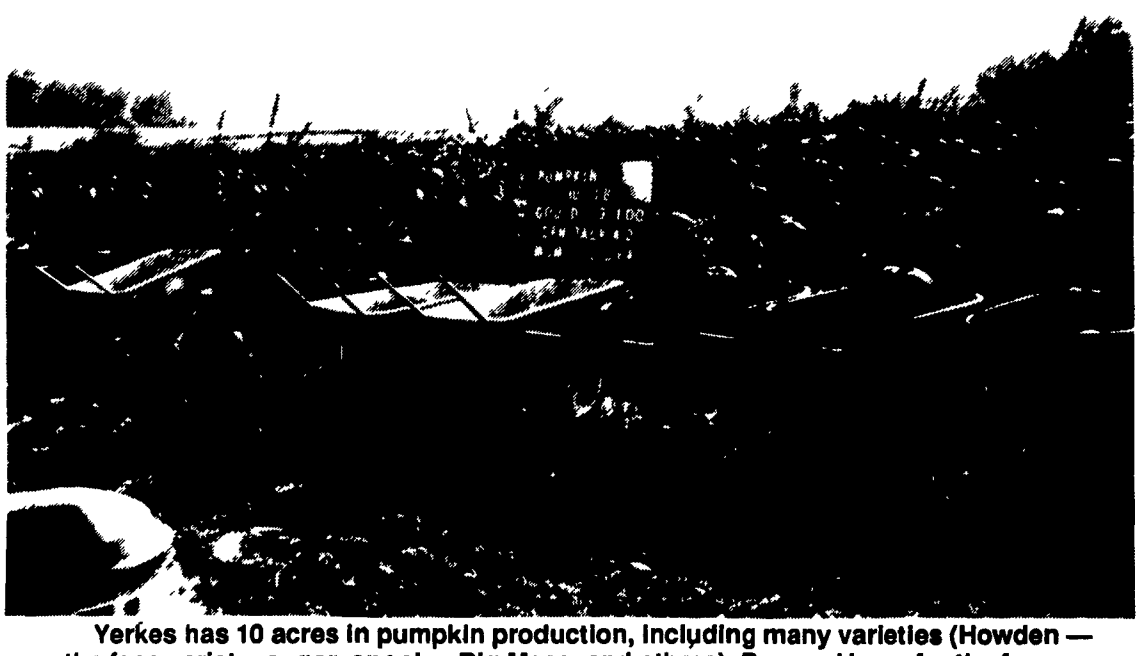
For the farm market, Bill Yerkes tills about 350 acres altogether, including nine acres of strawberries, 10 acres of pumpkins, 3½ acres of broccoli and cauliflower, three acres of tomatoes, an acre of raspberries, one acre of peppers, eggplant, and zuccini, and grows 13 acres of oats, 3½ acres of alfalfa, 25 acres of clover/timothy for the steers, and 125 acres of field corn. He also grows about 120 acres of soybeans. The market has been in business since 1978.

Yerkes, here pulling soil samples, believes he is fortunate to have proper soil drainage. That was specially challenging, since the farm recorded 15 inches of rain in five weeks at one time. Yerkes said that one time, more than three inches per week fell, twice as much as ideal, with one four-inch rainfall coming in a 24-hour period.



Yerkes has 10 acres in pumpkin production, including many varieties (Howden — the face variety; sugar; spooky; Big Macs; and others). Demand is up for the face, or carving pumpkins, but down for the cooking or neck pumpkins.

The annual pumpkin festival is growing so fast that "we're having trouble keeping up with it," said. "The whole thing is geared toward kids. It's a fun time for families, particularly the kids." Many pumpkin figures greet the visitors down the farm lane.

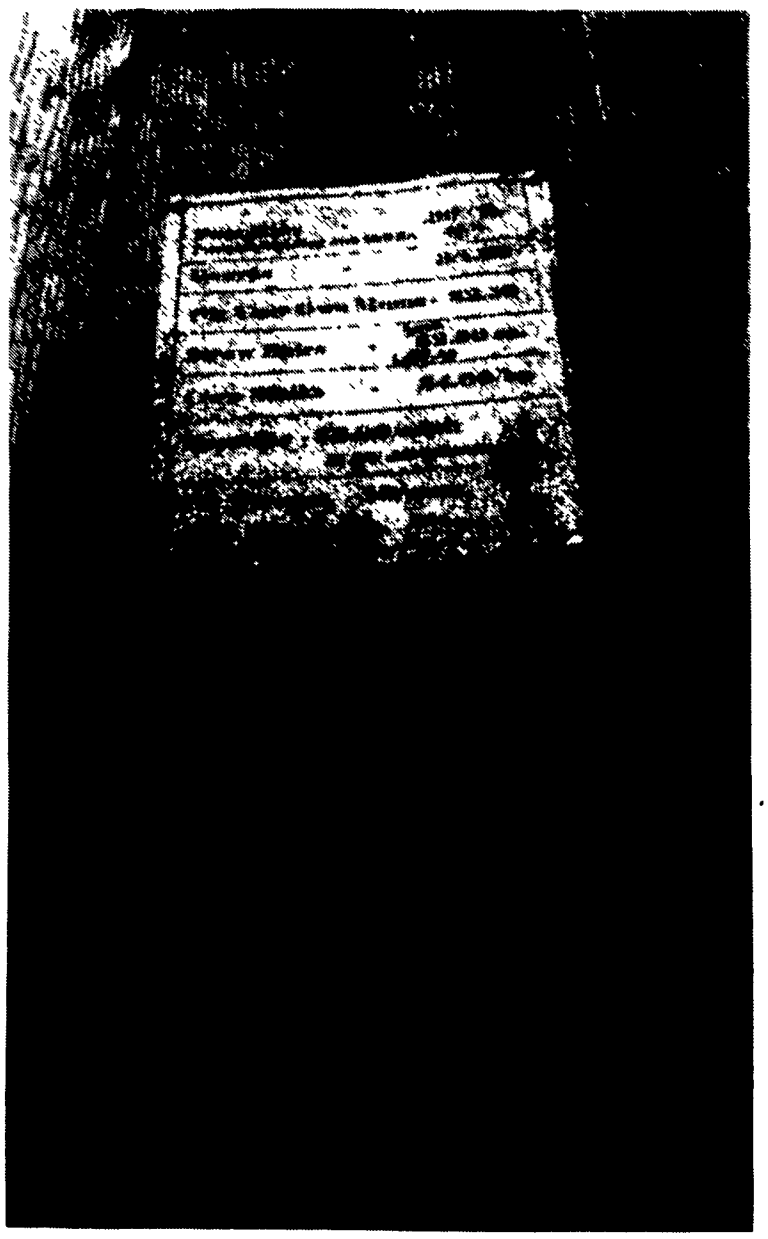
This time of year is particularly hectic for the farm because the pumpkins and other cool season crops are harvested for the store and for the festival.

None Such Farm was started by the Yerkes family in 1926. At the beginning of the Great Depression, it was a dairy. But dairy processors folded and Yerkes father and grandfather turned to produce and cattle farming in the mid-1930s.



In season, Yerkes sells the pumpkins for 30 cents a pound either at the store or at the pick-your-own location. One of tables identifies prices at the pumpkin-picking site.

The farm name, None Such, originated because at the time of its founding, there were "no such" farms as large in the central part of the county, according to Yerkes.

For a time, None Such grew only sweet corn (up to 250 acres) and raised steers. But in subsequent years the farm diversified, and now grows a considerable number of produce and livestock crops.

The farm market was started in 1978.

This year's mid-July "monsoons," said Yerkes, proved especially difficult to deal with because the overly wet conditions challenged corn picking and disease prevention on vine crops. "Those were the wettest conditions we've had for a long time," he said. "We just had an awful time this year harvesting corn."

Also, while many pumpkin growers encountered problems with fungal diseases such as anthracnose and problems with blight and powderey mildew, cultivation practices and critical applications of fungicides helped ensure a good vine crop for None Such Farm.

"You must rotate vine crops," said Yerkes. "It's very critical that they be rotated. You just absolutely cannot put vine crop on vine crop. It's deadly as far as soilborne problems."

He said that the farm uses an array of chemical treatments to ensure that, from bloom on, the pumpkin crop doesn't brown and wither. Also, proper fertilization is the key to good pumpkin production.

"Once they start to bloom, the pumpkin vines are sprayed every week, once a week," he said. Until first frost, there was no browning down of the vines. The pumpkins were orange everywhere — and late rains pushed a second bloom. There were still many pumpkins in the green stage ready to harvest.

Yerkes believes he is fortunate to have proper soil drainage. That was specially challenging, since the farm recorded 15 inches of rain in five weeks at one time. Yerkes said that one time, more than three inches per week fell, twice as much as ideal, with one four-inch rainfall coming in a 24-hour period.

"Vine crops can't take water around their toes. They don't like the wet conditions. They do better under dry conditions — if you have to have an excessive condition, it would be better dry than wet."

Yerkes has 10 acres in pumpkin production, including many varieties (Howden — the face variety; sugar; spooky; Big Macs; and others). Demand is up for the face, or carving pumpkins, but down for the cooking or neck pumpkins.

"Frankly, making pumpkin pies at home is a lost art in this area," he said.

But other vine crops, including cantaloupe, do well.

In season, Yerkes sells the pumpkins for 30 cents a pound

Adams Holstein Club Discusses National Convention

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — Plans for hosting the national convention, the presentation of a scholarship and other awards, plus election of new directors were the major items brought before the membership of the Adams County Holstein Club during the 43rd annual meeting held at the firehall in Barlow. The event was presided over by Marvin Brown.

Plans for the National Convention were outlined by John Cope, vice-president of the board of directors, Holstein Association USA Inc., who thanked the local club for financial support pledged toward expenses of the national convention. He reported that the convention will be held in Pittsburgh near the end of June 1995.

Cope described an innovative identification system and the options available to speed the registration of cattle. He told of steps taken to downsize the national organization and reduce the debtload. He also told of the creation of a Holstein Foundation to fund research and development and educational programs for youth.

David Lentz of Lebanon, a distinguished Holstein Youth, described a registration catch-up program and announced that six options are now offered for type classification.

Robin Thompson distributed the annual treasurer's report and Dan Waybright certified its accuracy for the auditing committee.

Kevin Holtzinger presented a detailed report on member placings at dairy shows throughout the year. He complimented Mary Kay Roche for organizing the first county Holstein Show which was held in conjunction with the South Mountain Fair in September. It was announced that Shannon Holtzinger will show in the, Intermediate calf class at the National Junior Show in Louisville, Kentucky the first weekend in November.

Jeff Roche listed accomplishments of the Junior Holstein Club members which included contributions toward a new youth show barn at South Mountain Fairgrounds. He distributed awards to the youth, including a first time presentation of a $250 scholarship. Everett "Beau" Ramsburg, of Gettysburg, a student in dairy and animal, science at Penn State, was the recipient.

Roche also announced that the Pennsylvania Holstein Association is accepting heifers for shipment to Saudi Arabia.

In concluding his service as state director, Steve Wood urged membership renewal by Nov. 1 to obtain the benefit of a fee incentive.

Director Robert Stratton thanked the Lobaugh family of Ber-Creek Farm for hosting the classification meeting.

Dan Waybright presented report on special activities and thanked the Clowney family for hosting the summer twilight meeting. His report was complemented by the slide-illustrated report on program highlights of the past year as presented by County Agent; Thomas E. Piper. This included scenes from the state convention, hosted by the county club in Get-either at the store or at the pick-your-own location. Some of the pumpkins weigh up to 300 pounds. To move them, Yerkes places a burlap cloth underneath, and strong arms are needed to lift the pumpkin for delivery.

For the festival, response has been tremendous, said Yerkes. On Sunday, more than 1,400 cars came in off of York Road, stalling traffic for a time. The biggest problem was having enough helpers for the fest, which Yerkes hopes to correct next year.

During the festival, three wagons are used, each with 15-minute ride durations. Finding helpers to work with traffic and to make sure the events run smoothly is a challenge.

"It's growing so fast that we're having trouble keeping up with it," he said. "The whole thing is geared toward kids. It's a fun time for families, particularly the kids."

Yerkes employs two full-time employees at the farm market and five full-time at the farm. In the summer, 30 help part-time at the market and in planting and harvesting the crops.

PSU Dairy Nutrition Indepth Workshops

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—Feed industry professionals will have an opportunity this fall to tap into the most recent research and practical applications in the field.

Penn State's dairy nutrition group will host one-day workshops in mid-November at four locations across Pennsylvania:

November 14	Shadow Brook Ann and Resort, Tunkhannock
November 15	Holiday Inn, Morgantown
November 16	Ramada Inn, Somerset
November 17	Garden Gate, Butler

Early morning sessions will cover an up-to-date look at milk replacers, how to apply carbohydrate nutrition to practical feeding situations and how to trouble-shoot nutrition problems using PADHIA's body condition scoring sheet.

Late-morning discussions will focus on developing rations for herds using intensive grazing, and feeding dry cows for nutrition, health, and profit.

In the afternoon, Penn State faculty will have the opportunity to showcase their new forage and TMR particle size separator and its implications in feeding dairy cattle. They will also talk about the Dairy-MAP program and share current data on heifer growth rates and diet modifications.

Finally, late-afternoon discussion will focus on how the farmstead, nutrient management, and water quality impact the producer and the environment.

The workshop's $30 registration fee covers room rental, lunch breaks and reference materials. Registration deadline is Nov. 8. For more information on the dairy feed industry work-shop, contact your local cooperative extension office or Workshop Coordinator Virginia Ishler (814-863-3912).

Pa. Holstein Offers Membership Special

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association has announced that Oct. 1 began the new year for memberships, and coinciding with that is a one-month special 10-percent discount on dues.

According to a news release from the Pa. Holstein Association, while anyone may join the organization at any time, those who join by Nov. 1 will receive a 10-percent discount on the $25 base fee.

A 5-percent discount is offered for those who pay membership from Nov. 2 through Dec. 1.

Members of the Pa. Holstein Association are entitled to participate in educational, promotional and service programs at local, district and state levels. Some of these events include field days, barn meetings, tours, picnics, annual meetings, shows, sales (domestic and international), in addition to a strong youth program.

Also included in the membership is a subscription to the periodical Pennsylvania Holstein Profiles (five times per year), and the weekly Farmshine publication.

Pa. Holstein Association members who are also members of Holstein-Friesian Assocation of America, otherwise known as the national Holstein Association, are also entitled to a $6 savings on registration of calves aged less than 3 months. The savings on the registration of three calves per year about pays for the state membership.

One of the most repeated reasons for being a member of the breed organization is being able to share thoughts and concerns with other Holstein dairymen.

According to the news release, "You don't have to have a barn full of registered cows to take part and enjoy the fellowship that comes with being a member of Pennsylvania Hosltein Association."

For more information, call the Holstein Associaton at (814) 234-0364.

ABS Announces Hall Of Fame Inductee, Death of Melwood

DEFOREST, Wis. — Atalntic Breeders Service, an artificial insemination business based in DeForest, Wis., has announced the death of its 12-year-old sire, Arlinda Melwood-Et, and also the induction of one of its former bulls into the company's own hall of fame.

According to a news release, 29 H5730 Arlinda Melwood-ET died Sept. 2 at the ABS facility in Wellington, Colo.

In a separate news release from ABS, it was announced that 29 H3960 Howard-Home Caveman-Red was recently inducted into the ABS Hall of Fame.

Melwood also is to join Caveman in the ABS Hall of Fame honor, according to the company.

Melwood was owned and developed by Wally Lindskoog, of Arlinda Holsteins, in Turlock, Calif. In breeding the bull, Lindskoog combined a good uddered Paclamar Combination dam with Arlinda Rotate, a double-bred Chief son. This mating resulted in Melwood, and Lindskoog began to do his own proof on the bull.

Melwood arrived at ABS Colorado in January 1987 and was released for sale that spring.

According to the ABS' news release, "His initial summary caught the attention of many prominent breeders who were willing to take a chance on a top, breeder-proven bull.

"Aside from the caution label associated with breeder-proven bulls, Melwood has weathered many obstacles ... during the six years he has been in the active ABS lineup," the company stated.

"First, was the scare that the introduction of the udder composite would totally remove Melwood from the top 100 TPI list. While his initial composites were quite low, he not only remained in the top 100, he secured his position in the top 50.

"As hundreds of AI daughters calved and were classified, it became obvious that Melwood was capable of improving udders," the company stated.

"Then there was the shift from fat to protein," which, according to the company, also could revalue the sire.

"But, as second crop Melwood daughters were pushing up his milk proof, his protein production also increased."

Melwood numbers include +1180 TPI, a PTAT of +1.61. In production, his latest proof was +2,407 milk; +116 fat; and +68 protein.

"While Melwood's reign has come to a close, the legacy will continue through his first proven sons," according to ABS.

"Melwood's influence, passed on through his sons, has ranked him as the number one sire of sons in the January 1994 Pennsylvania State University Sires of Sons Study."

More than 25 Melwood sons are to be summarized in the next two years at ABS, with others still entering the test program.

"ABS began to use Melwood as a sire of sons at the time of his initial proof in 1987. One of the earliest matings produced was 29 H6217 Singing-Brook Benchmark-ET."

The background on ABS's other announced hall of fame inductee, Caveman, is that he was noted for siring daughters with good legs and feet and with "high component milk from well-attached, shapely udders," according to the A.I. company.

The red and white genetic carrier was a Ca-Lill Standout Cavalier RC son out of an Excellent 91 EE black-red, Triple Threat daughter.

He has three sons in stud at ABS. "Looking back on Caveman, there is no doubt that he was one of the most popular export bulls ABS has had," said Paul Miller, with ABS. According to the news release, strong sales of Caveman semen in Europe helped him hold the title as the top-selling red and white bull for several years.

Arlinda Melwood-ET died Sept. 2 at the ABS facility in Wellington, Colo.

Kreider, Donough Bask In Spotlight Of Awards At Swine Banquet

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — At the county swine roundup last August, Nicole Kreider felt too ill to show her animal. Somehow, in the excitement of the event, she "got over it," she admitted, and won first place in a medium weight class.

On Wednesday night, at the 1994 4-H Swine Banquet at the Country Table Restaurant, Nicole was honored as 4-H Rookie of the Year.

Nicole, 9, daughter of Rich and Peg Kreider, Elizabethtown, said that at the end of the roundup, she "still felt kind of tired." Nicole said she wanted to show because she saw how well her brother, Nathan, 12, did as a swine showman. Nicole is in the fourth grade at Fairview Elementary.

Travis Donough, 14, was honored as Outstanding Member at the banquet. During the six years as club member, Travis has shown at a wide variety of fairs and farm shows and has accumulated a "tableful" of awards, literally. At home, an antique round table holds the many trophies and plaques garnered at many events.

Travis, son of Ed and LaRue Donough, Manheim, said that if he has his way, the Outstanding Member Award will join the others at the awards table. Travis is a freshman at Manheim Central and said he plans to have an ag-oriented career, perhaps in ag engineering.

Project books awards were presented to Derrick Frank, first place; Karen Cassel, second place; and Tina Umbrell, third place.

A special appreciation award was presented to Warren and Beverly Heisey family at the banquet. In addition, a certificate of appreciation was presented to Roger Rohrer, Strasburg.

Chet Hughes, county livestock agent, said that nearly 30 members of the club will be showing at next year's Farm Show event.

This is the seventh year as a countywide club, and this year marked the ninth show and sale at Manheim, the biggest roundup ever. This year also marked the sixth successful carcass show.

The club membership is holding steady at 90. He said, "It's a big club and a big program. Parents are very important to the program. You know that. We need you to support our members."

Umble: Don't Sell — Rather, Learn To Breed Good Producing Cows

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ATGLEN (Chester Co.) — Many years ago, retired Holstein breeder John Umble had a chance to consign a cow named "Cherry" to a national sale.

He could have gotten maybe as high as $4,000 for her.

But, thinking otherwise, he kept the cow and bred her. Fortunately, after 35 years of breeding registered Holstein cattle, in October of 1983, when his cows went to dispersal, the descendants of Cherry (46 in all) sold for a total of nearly $419,000, at more than $9,000 a cow.

"I was glad that God directed me to keep that cow," said Umble to more than 100 gathered on Tuesday night at the annual Chester County Holstein Banquet at the West Fallowfield Christian School.

Umble, 76, spoke about some of his experiences through 35 years of breeding. He detailed the many high-indexing and high-producing cows he bred throughout the years and offered encouragement to today's Holstein breeder.

Although he admitted to perhaps being out of date, and certain that feeding programs have changed tremendously over that span of time, he said, "An old breeder told me years ago, the fuller you keep that cow, the more milk she's going to give."

But Umble cautioned producers to be wary of the constant push to make cows produce, even to as high as 30,000-35,000 pounds of milk. "Don't push them 2-year-olds to that kind of record," said Umble. "You're going to ruin that udder. Take care of them. Feed them but don't push them."

Breeders should set a goal in their program, either for breed type (use good type bulls), test (use high test bulls), or production (if you feed it and push it too much, it'll last only a few years in the herd).

"You have to keep that cow in your herd, and keep her, and keep her, and get good offspring out of that good cow," he said.

All too often, that "front-stall cow" is sent to sale or slaughter, when, in fact, if the cow had two good daughters, the potential is there for 10 or even 15 daughters, according to the former breeder.

Also at the meeting, Walt Wurster, Chester County agent, said that about $325,000 in pledges and money has been raised for the Romano 4-H Center.

The goal is $700,000 for the project.

He told the Chester Holstein members that this fall or spring, a pole building will be put up on the fairgrounds and there is a good chance that 4-H events at the site will commence next summer. The pole building is donated.

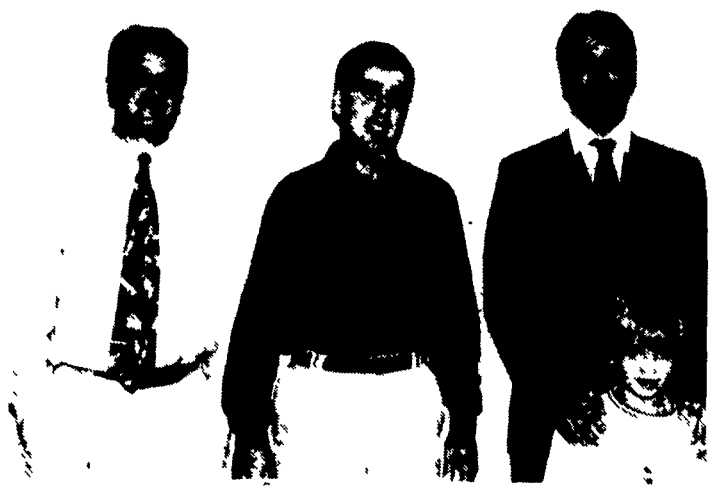
Dick Hostetter, the association secretary/treasurer, said that the starting balance as of Oct. 26, 1993 was $1,305.52. Total income for 1993-1994 was $9,167.06 with expenses of $7,689.51, for a total profit of $1,477.55. Ending balance as of Oct. 25, 1994 is $2,783.70. Cheese sales profit for the year was $1,473.

Three new directors were elected at the meeting. They are Rodney Bare, Tim Barlow, and Dale Hostetter.

Also at the meeting, production awards were presented to association members. High lifetime production award for the second year in a row went to Victor and Herman Stoltzfus, Cochranville, for Herbeth Emily Marvex Wayne 14-7, for 283,535 pounds, 10,546f, 8,567p. Breed Age Average (BAA) recognition of 107.8 percent went to Galen Martin, Honey Brook.

High protein lactation honors went to Duane and Marilyn Hershey, Cochranville, for Shelmar Acres Leadman Laura, 1-09, 305d, 25,713 pounds, 3.3%, 853p. High protein mature cow honors went to Charles Moore, Cochranville, for Rol Pen Lyn Alfalfa, 4-07, 303d, 35,953 pounds, 3.1%, 1,122p.

From left, high protein mature cow honors went to Charles Moore, Cochranville, accepted by Penny Moore; high lifetime production award for the second year in a row went to Victor and Herman Stoltzfus, Cochranville, accepted by Victor Stoltzfus; and high protein lactation honors went to Duane and Marilyn Hershey, Cochranville, accepted by Duane Hershey. In front is Duane's son Kelby, 6 and on right, Hershey's sons Stephen, 8 and Robert, 4.



Three new directors were elected at the meeting. They are, from left, Rodney Bare, Dale Hostetter, and Tim Barlow with son Steven, 5.

National FFA Predicts Dramatic Growth In PALS Program

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — "The best crop we grow in our county is our kids. When they go through experiences like this, after they graduate they're going to be more productive citizens," observed agriculture teacher Charles Franklin, referring to FFA's student mentoring program.

Partners in Active Learning Support (PALS) matches high school agriculture students (mentors) with elementary youngsters (mentees) living in at-risk environments. PALS is sponsored by the W.K. Kellogg Foundation as a special project of the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

At this year's National FFA Convention, November 10-12, in Kansas City, Mo., a PALS mentoring conference will be held to expand participation in this program. One of the objectives of PALS is to develop improved self-esteem and self-concept in students as a result of the relationships between FFA members and elementary youth and in turn develop happier and more productive citizens in our society.

The PALS mentoring program began in 1991 and is active in 150 schools in 16 states. Mentors and mentees work together in one-to-one relationships focused on learning and developing outdoor projects in the world of agriculture.

There are seven members of each PALS team including two each of teachers, administrators, and counselors along with one community member. An important component of the PALS program is community involvement. The FFA provides the framework with which to develop PALS and the community takes charge of tailoring the program to the needs of the children in that specific area.

In a 1994 study conducted by the University of Texas at San Antonio, 76 percent of the teachers who participated in the PALS program observed that mentors had a better understanding of human development, younger children, and themselves. PALS is a program that supports and guides youngsters on a path to healthy and productive lives. For those FFA chapters interested in starting a PALS program, the PALS hotline is 1 (800) PALS-FFA.

Price Heads Lancaster

show me the whys and hows of the poultry industry," Price said.

He also joined the Lancaster County Poultry Association, where he was immediately appointed as secretary to the board.

"It was a great opportunity to meet everybody in a hurry and be involved in the industry in a different level," Price said of his position on the board.

A job offer from Agway Feeds gave Price the opportunity to learn the feed end of the industry. He covered the Pennsylvania and Maryland area, but, after 15 months, found it to be a lonely job much of the time. Now, as sales representative and account manager for the northeast region of Hy-Line International, Price finds it exciting to work with a young and aggressive company.

"I did not even consider becoming a chick salesman until the opportunity arose," Price said. "It's exciting to think that there are only four or five of us in the industry. I feel like I am the most fortunate person in the world."

Even more exciting to him is the poultry industry as a whole.

"It is an outstanding association. There is so much involvement from industry and producers. Because everybody contributes a little, we (the organization) are able to do a lot," Price said.

The focus of the Association has changed in recent years. The main focus several years earlier was the farm tours. Now the Association focuses on educating the members on issues such as animal rights, environment, and food safety.

"The Association spent more money and utilized more resources in the past few years than they probably did in the last 25 years," Price said.

He thinks that media advertisement with billboards, radio, and television enables "the poultry message" to reach the consumers.

The positive message for the poultry industry is sometimes muddled by voices from animal rightists and environmental issues, he said.

"It's a challenge. It will be more of a challenge next year than last and continue to be that way. But we want to be less defensive and more offensive in our message," Price said.

As president, Price hopes to make the industry stronger by offering insight on how to react to reactionary groups.

"This is an industry that doesn't hide its challenges," Price said. "Evidence of that is how the industry dealt with avian influenza and the Salmonella enteriditis."

"We dealt with these problems and grew because of them," Price said. He forsees using the animal rightists' confrontations as positive influences for the industry.

Mark's wife Krista will graduate from veterinary school in May. The couple plans to move to Lancaster so that Mark's long commute can be eliminated.

By using resources from the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, the Egg Association of America, and the United Egg Producers, Price believes the "poultry message" can be even stronger.

"My feelings toward affiliation with other poultry associations has changed somewhat," Price said. "I thought at one time that we (the county association) had a complete grasp on understanding what the public needs to hear, but I realize that others sometimes see areas of need that we haven't even considered."

Last year the board devised their own television commercials, but some had already been developed by the national association and are available for use locally.

Money for the association comes from the fundraiser of a poultry food stand at the Ephrata Fair, which made a $3,200 profit this year, from sponsorship by allied members and producers, and the annual $20 membership fee.

Members receive a bimonthly newsletter and may utilize the association for resources. If they have a problem with their flock, for example, they may consult the association for help and for information on who to contact.

One of the changes made by the association recently was to appoint a poultry ambassador instead of a queen. This year's ambassador is Michele Stauffer. The board is in the process of defining her duties. They want her to continue classroom demonstrations.

"It's an outstanding way to educate young people about the industry," Price said.

Price said that in his work with producers, most have at least 30 years experience on generational farms.

"This is an area where producers are a well-educated group, and they have the ethics and the knowledge of how to do things," Price said.

"When you visit their farms, they already know what problems they have. They only need support and technical advice," he said.

He finds this surprising since the county is known to be conservative. "Producers are still in the business for a reason — because they are willing to try new things combined with their ethics."

Board members are limited to five years of holding any position on the board. They must take a year off before returning to the board. Most presidents serve only a one-year term. Price sees this as an advantage.

"You can bring a lot of enthusiasm, new ideas and anticipation to the position for one year. After that, one has the tendancy to burnout since it is a volunteer position," he said.

Price and his wife are looking forward to May when Krista graduates from verterinary school. They plan to move to Lancaster County and Krista hopes to get a position at a small animal hospital.

"She's very sharp — first in her class — and has done her part to take advantage of all the opportunities during her training," Price said.

Krista also has some aspirations to become a poultry veterinarian. She has spent some summers working in poultry research and finds it fascinating.

After years of being unable to spend much time together because of Krista's strenuous schooling and Price's long working hours to provide the finances, the couple plan to celebrate Krista's graduation by taking a two-week honeymoon trip to Montana.

For relaxation, Price is an archery hunter and likes to golf.

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Holstein Club Tuesday held its annual banquet at the Schaefferstown Fire Hall and recognized a number of outstanding achievements by its members, in addition to reviewing business and electing three directors.

The Holstein Club annually meets to elect officers and review the past year's achievements and club business.

Elected to serve on the board of directors were Kirby Horst, Donald Krall, and Nelson Bomgardner.

Reid Hoover, state director, talked about the upcoming national Holstein convention which is to be held in Pittsburgh in 1995.

David Lentz, of Lebanon, who is working part time for the Holstein Association and who is also an outgoing member of the club's board of directors, attended the meeting in lieu of Clarence Stauffer, reviewed the different options for classification offered by the association and also reminded members about the upcoming annual winter forum, set to be held Feb. 16 at the Sheraton-East in Harrisburg, during which members can find out about issues affected the association and discuss policy.

Further, he discussed the Holstein Foundation, which is not breed-specific and the Young Dairy Leaders Institute, which offers young people the opportunity to experience and learn more about themselves and the industry.

Ken Raney, director of membership service, also discussed the convention, a special Holstein-breeder locator map and directory that is being put together for the national convention, and membership dues specials. The map, he said, is to be used for several years to direct visitors in the state to breeders.

Raney also said the Pa. Holstein Association is looking for registered heifers for a shipment to Saudi Arabia. He said Connie Hoffer, of Annville, is the local contact person. He said from two to five plane loads of heifers are to be needed in January. He said they are looking for springers, registered and grade.

He also reviewed the annual Fall Classic Sale, put on by the Penn State Dairy Club, with 82 head consigned and 55 fresh or which will be fresh.

cent of the herds processed for the year-end were official (for a variety of reasons, enough tests may not be completed to qualify as an official year-end record.).

Quite a large number of member herds use AM-PM testing, which is a system that allows a technician to test in the morning one test day and the evening the next. The traditional two-times per day testing procedure is still used, but many are switching to using less intrusive testing procedures.

Top Cow Protein, Milk

The 1993-94 top production record for milk and protein made by an individual cow went to a registered Holstein owned by Curvin and Dawn Good, of Myerstown.

Good's now 7-year-old cow, Cur-Daw Sonya, made a record of 43,323 pounds of milk and 1,443 pounds of protein on a 305-day lactation — her fifth — to top all other individual cows on test with Pa.DHIA.

Sonya is a Sundancer daughter out of a Superb daughter. That Superb daughter was one that Curvin bought years back from Donald Bollinger, of Kleinfeltersville.

As a 2-year-old, Sonya made 19,945 pounds of 4.2 percent fat milk on a 305-day lactation; as a 3-year-old, she produced 25,363 pounds of 3.6 percent fat milk in 291 days; as a 4-year-old, she made 31,476 pounds of 3.6 percent milk in 299 days; as a 5-year-old she made 35,822 pounds of 3.4 percent milk in 305 days.

"I didn't really expect her to do this," Curvin said Wednesday at his 80-acre dairy farm, located just south of Myerstown. He said that while she had been a steadily strong milker and bred back easily, giving him all heifers to date (she's due to freshen November to Jed), he didn't expect the milk flow that came on this last lactation.

When she freshened in September 1993, she delivered twin heifer calves. "She cleaned right up and just starting making milk," he said.

According to Good she peaked at 170 pounds per day and never dropped below 100 pounds until her last test, when she made 75 pounds. Then he dried her off as she finished at 377 days, bred and ready to prepare for another lactation.

Curvin and Dawn, whom Curvin said does most of the milking, have other high producing cows in their 70-milking cow string, which includes a breeding philosophy of stressing production, but not ignoring type. In fact, the herd contains three Excellents and some more classifying close to that mark. (The farm BAA was more than 107.)

No. 34 was scored a Very Good 85, though not classified this past round because of being dry. She "walks uphill," carrying a long, large, deep, strong frame with good width.

The second highest producer in the Good herd is one of their Excellent cows, a Cleitus daughter that produced 36,000 pounds at 305-days and is expected to make more than 40,000 at 365 days.

For those who have been following Pa.DHIA end-of-year records closely, especially those published in the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association annual yearbooks, the herd of Curvin and Dawn Good has been near the top of Lebanon County's high-averaging list for several years. That is an accomplishment in a county which has had the highest herd average in the state for several years.

However, the yearbook records for the past three years seem a little confusing.

The Goods' herd last year was 11th statewide among the Holstein herds with a rolling herd average on more than 80 cows of 26,399 pounds of milk.

The previous year, the Good's herd averaged more than 90 cows and produced an average 24,259 pounds of milk.

This year their herd average, on 71 cows was 26,379 pounds of milk.

Curvin said that to someone reviewing only the Pa.DHIA records, it may appear as though he has been culling and dropping 10 cows per year from the milking string, while concentrating on increasing production per cow.

That is actually a strategy offered in some cases by Penn State Extension experts for those seeking to maximize the profit-to-investment ratios.

However, Curvin said what actually happened was that he and his brother Jay, who had formed a partnership years ago and taken over the family farm from their father Willis, dissolved their partnership three years ago when they had about 100 milking cows.

The switch-over really came in the spring of 1993, and at that time Curvin and Jay each took away about 48 cows. Curvin bought some additional to fill out his milking string and was milking 65 during 1993, but the records (contained in the 1994 yearbook) showed a herd average of 81 animals.

That happened because Pa.DHIA records took into account all the cows milked that year — before the brothers split the partnership, and afterward.

From now on, Curvin said, he expects that he will keep the milking herd at about 70 animals.

He said he feeds a totally mixed ration made with haylage, silage, high moisture corn, soymeal and some bean flake, along with minerals. He milks out of a 50-tie stall barn and feeds with a Weaverline cart, that he said allows him to feed quickly.

Top Fat Producer

The top cow for milk fat production for the year was also a Holstein — a 6-year-old registered cow owned by James Harteis, of Ebensburg, in Cambria County.

Harteis milks three times per day according to the Pa.DHIA records. His cow, listed as No. 1, made 1,890 pounds of fat. Her milk output was 32,100 pounds of milk and she gave 977 pounds of protein during the lactation that started July 30, 1993.

The percentage of fat in the milk from No. 1 was not the highest listed of the top fat producers, but it was very close with 5.9 percent fat. The protein component was 3 percent.

Top Herds

The top averaging herd for milk is owned by Rob and Donna Van Blarcom of Columbia Cross Roads, with 29,136 pounds of milk from 78 grade and registered cows. That herd's fat production average was 934 pounds, while protein was 934 pounds.

The top averaging protein producing herd was a 71-cow herd of registered and grade Holsteins owned by Frederick Farms, in Martinsburg. The herd averaged 909 pounds protein, 1,116 pounds fat and 29,059 pounds milk.

The herd with the top fat production was owned by R.V. and S.V. Hollenshead, of Mercersburg. The 140-cow herd of registered and grade Holsteins averaged 1,183 pounds of fat, 906 pounds of protein and 28,470 pounds of milk.

Herd Management Award Winners

The annual top herd management award was shared this year between the farm of Mark and David Campbell of Armstrong County and Fantasyland Farm in Berks County.

The two farms tied in the number of points earned to win the award. The points are tallied according to a variety of dairying aspects, that all indicate an improvement in management.

The lists of top milk, fat, and protein cows and rolling herd averages can be found starting on page D2 of this issue.

Juniata Conservation

ly owned by her parents, Edward and Anna Guss.

Guss families have owned the farm since 1856, and it is expected to remain in the family, because they have two sons, Joe and George, as well as four grandchildren. Known as "The Guss Farm" for many past years, ti now has the name, "Springwater Farm." The Tabbs' conservation plan was done in 1989, even though they actually began doing conservation work on the farm in the 1970s. The farm has 38 tillable acres plus pasture, and they farm with a rotation of corn and soybeans, with all residue remaining. A year of small grain and three or four years of alfalfa-grass hay follows the corn and/or soybeans. Chicken or steer manure is applied to the grass fields in the fall prior to doing no-till or minimum till in the spring to corn or soybeans.

Although 100' wide strips were laid out in the early 80's, these were replaced with 50' wide strips due to erosion problems. These strips have been maintained, and there are 2,422 feet of subsurface drains and a grass-lined 2,200 foot open field ditch.

Joe mentioned that one of his first conservation practices was to place breakers in roads on the farm.

It is evident that the Tabbs love their farm, which is located along the Hammer Hollow Road, just off the Licking Creek Road in Milford Township. They have remodeled the farm home and have done some landscaping.

One of their most difficult accomplishments was building a stone wall along their lawn. Artistry as well as hard work went into this, as they included local rocks with fossils in them, and also special sections where such items as pieces of petrified wood from South Dakota were worked into the design.

Although planning retirement, the Tabbs said they do not expect to be idle as they remain active in this community. Their church, St. Stephen's Lutheran, is nearby. The "Zook's Dam" area adjoins their farm, and the Tabbs and others in the community look forward to the completion of a skating rink.

Joe has been a Milford Township supervisor for seven years, and said it is a real satisfaction to have their requested project completed, cooperating with U.S. Fish & Wildlife, Mid-State RC&D, the Soil Conservation Service and the Juniata County Conservation District.

Gary and Shirley Imes, 1994 outstanding large cooperator, have been on their farm along Route 35, south of Mifflin, in Milford Township, since 1978. It was originally the Ed Sterrett Farm.

Gary was born in Beale Township and then his family moved to the Honey Grove area. He has been farming all of his life and said he truly enjoys it. In his youth he was kept quite busy on his father's dairy farm.

Shirley also has a background of dairy farming and was a big help to Gary when they had dairy cattle in the earlier years of their farming. They changed to beef cows and calves in 1991 and have about 100 head. Shirley is now head cook at Tuscarora Valley Junior High. Their daughter, Kelly, attends Juniata High and enjoys playing field hockey.

They have 300 acres, with 140 tillable. Acreage is used as follows: 40 acres in corn; 30 acres in soybeans; 15 acres in rye; and the remainder in hay and pasture. In addition they use 68 acres from other farms where they have hay and some alfalfa.

The Imes' conservation plan was done in 1982. About 3 acres are contour cropping and 86 acres are in strip farming. There are 2,000 feet of subsurface drains.

Gary, 44, said he is looking forward to spending the rest of his life on the farm, which is within sight of his father's farm.

Shirley, not present to receive the award, attends the Mifflintown Assembly of God Church and enjoys her work in the school cafeteria.

Montadale Show, Sale Held

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Montadale Breeders had their debut sale at the Keystone Show this year, and a good first impression they made.

The Mid-Atlantic area has become a top source for competitive Montadale genetics, with several breeders in that area showing and selling nationally competitive sheep. Their influence was strongly felt in this hot new sale.

The champion and top selling ewe, was on the first place ewe lamb consigned by Weston Farm, of Glen Arm, MD. This Grand Design daughter from their show flock sold to Vanderwende Genetics, for the weekends top price of $1000. The Reserve Champion ewe also came from the tough ewe lamb class. She was consigned by the Cavey Family, of New Windsor, MD., and this triplet daughter of Grand Design brought a $50 bid from Meghan Ried, Clear Spring, MD.

The next ewe to sell was the first place yearling ewe from Ron & Karen Ferguson of Fredonia, PA. This class winner sold for $400 to Sally & Kathryn Booth, Westminster, MD. A Weston Farm yearling ewe sold at $500 to Thelma Kitzmiller, Wellsville, PA. However it was the third place ewe from Alexandra Drenning, that caused the most excitement in the yearling ewe class. This big ewe topped the yearling ewe prices at $650 also going to the Booths. A pair of Pennsylvania ewes were next to sell with Sarah Williams of Honesdale, PA. taking a Breezeview (McCauley) ewe at $350, and a Faith Acres (Parry) ewe sold for $225 to Donald Quigley, Keymar, MD.

Another Cavey ewe lamb sold to Zachary Reed, Newville, PA. for a $325 bid. The next Ferguson ewe lamb sold for $300 to Lynne Warner, of Lineboro, MD.

With over thirty buyers registered, from seven states it was easy to see that the interest was high for this new Montadale sale. The buyers certainly appreciated the quality of the Montadale offering as the sale posted a strong $488.88 average.

Dave Cook, New London, Ohio; judged the show and Bill McCauley, Atglen, PA. auctioned the sale. The sale was managed by the Maryland Montadale Assoc.

The champion ewe at the Keystone Montadale Bred Ewe and Ewe Lamb sale was consigned by Weston Farm, Glen Arm, Md. The ewe sold for $1000, to Vanderwende Genetics, Buffalo, N.D.

The reserve grand champion, 565 pound, steer belonged to Donald Shiess from Larwill, Indiana. Eric Berkheimer, Mechanicsburg, paid $1,125 for the animal.

Bringing the top price at the sale, however, was the Somerset County Bred reserve champion, for which buyer Tim Bishop, Homer City, paid a sizable $1,700. The 590 pounder was also owned by H. Wayne Miller of Fairhope whose calves in recent years have been impressing buyers and taking champion titles.

Ronald Kanagy, representing Kanagy Manor Farm, Belleville, purchased both the grand and reserve grand champion heifers which placed him as the premier buyer at the event.

Huff Family Show Calves, Smicksburg had the grand champion heifer while Davis Show Calves, Zanesville, Ohio, had the reserve grand champion heifer.

Officials said the steers' average sale price was $680 with the champion or $650 without the champion.

With the champion, heifers averaged $600 per head. Without the champion, the average fell to $565.

The largest steer this year weighed 760 pounds and the smallest one weighed 355 pounds.

Perhaps the great autumn weather was responsible for a marked increase this year in the number of animals sold. The total rose by some 25 head over last year, according to reports.

John Spiker, Jane Lew, W.Va. was the sale auctioneer. The afternoon show was judged by Scott McIntire also from West Virginia.

Susquehanna Valley Artisans Plan Holiday Tour

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

HALLAM (York Co.) — Making a basket changed Deb Roberson's life.

Ten years ago, the then executive secretary was invited by a visiting relative to learn to make a basket. Five tedious hours later, she finished her first small, woven creation.

"Four months later, I quit my job to go to full-time basketmaking. I was hooked," she says with a smile.

Deb's basketry business, "Another Choice," will be one of 14 professional craftspersons hosting open houses in November during the first Susquehanna Valley Artisan's Holiday Studio Tour. Her 505 East Market Street shop in Hallam will also display the handwoven textiles of weaver Thomas Knisely and kaleidoscopes crafted by Mick Musser.

The tour, which runs all four November weekends,10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays & Sundays, including the Friday after Thanksgiving, evolved through open houses which several of the participating artisans have independently hosted in previous years. Rather than schedule them randomly, a group of four, with Deb as secretary, began organizing in January to host concurrent open houses. They broadened the tour, by inviting other artisans whose work they knew, to include a selective variety of fine crafts. By naming themselves the Susquehanna Valley Artisans, the core group has looked ahead to future inclusion of craftspersons from adjoining counties.

Many of the artisans will be demonstrating their skills to visitors during tour days, as well as having an ample selection of their crafts on hand for holiday shoppers. Getting an inventory ready for the November-long event has many of the crafters, like Deb Roberson, working overtime.

Other than the assistance she got to complete the first basket, Deb has never taken a class in her craft. Instead, she studied volumes of antique books, experimenting with reproducing the baskets she found in pictures until the end results met her high-quality standards. Her designs range from classic market baskets to large, round hamper-size styles, many with intricate woven accents, ornately decorated handles, and matching lids.

Though she can make as many as 20 baskets in a full day in her studio, in recent years Deb has concentrated on fashioning fewer, but more creative, designs. One of her most popular styles with customers, however, continues to be the traditional feather basket, a deep, round style with a lid that slides up the handle, was used in earlier days for storing poultry feathers.

Other baskets at "Another Choice" are less traditional and even whimsical, like Deb's reproduction of woven poultry-carriers, resembling giant lanterns, and birdhouses with thatch-like roofs. Her rectangular, woven gift boxes with matching lids were designed when she needed a special container for a dozen, crafted roses.

"And don't ever give your mother a reject basket," she quips. "That's the one she'll take everywhere." One such basket Deb gave to her mother became a favorite of her parents for taking along on trips, a sort of picnic basket for snacks. Deb offered to replace it with a custom-made picnic basket she devised, which has woven holders at each end for beverage containers. The design has since become one of the estimated 115 different styles and sizes in her inventory.

"A lot of my designs are custom made to meet some specific need a customer has," Deb explains. "If you know what they want to use them for, you can devise and adapt." Sometimes these new and special ideas take some mental pondering before they come out the way she envisions.

"It's taken me as long as two years to get a basket 'right'," she says, chuckling that she will get frustrated occasionally and toss the half-worked creation on a shelf for a while.

While traditional baskets of the Southcentral Pennsylvania region were crafted of oak, Deb uses reed and rattan, a product made from the climbing tropical palm tree. Handles are of hickory, ash or oak commercial stock, which she hand carves and notches to fit each individual basket.

Deb's husband, Jim, handles the dyeing of material for the basketry accent colors, using blends of commercial dyes which they mix, after experimenting for just the right shades. Most baskets are stained with an all-natural dye made from black walnuts, giving the finished product an antique, used patina.

Because she specializes in more time-consuming, special-design baskets, Deb limits her participation in craft shows to just a few annually which feature top-quality items. The farthest she travels to a show is Westerville, Ohio, where she has won best-of-show awards; she is also a regular participant in the noted local East Berlin Colonial Days.

Her eye-catching show booth is designed to look like a log cabin, with a porch where Deb weaves baskets while sitting in a rocker. Jim, who often accompanies her to the shows, is fond of putting a child in one of her large bushel baskets and picking it up by the handles, to demonstrate the strength of the flexible, resilient materials.

"People often think because they are flexible, baskets will break, but it's the flexibility of the materials that keeps them from breaking," she demonstrates, as she squeezes and stretches one of her large, round "bushel" baskets.

Just up and across the street from "Another Choice," another Susquehanna Artisans Tour host is hammering away on hard steel in his blacksmith shop.

At "Ye Olde Workshoppe," 420 E. Market Street, blacksmith Louie Frantz works full time at forging metal reproductions and his original designs.

Frantz's hand-forged wrought iron pieces range from fireplace sets to lamp stands, many designed after those created by his colonial-days predecessors.

During tour hours, Frantz will be demonstrating his blacksmithing skills.

Traditional 18th century gunsmithing will be shown at Cabin Creek Gun Shop, 50 West Beaver Street, where gunsmith Brad Emig crafts detailed reproductions of firearms. Emig's museum quality pieces are carefully researched for historic authenticity. In addition to his crafting of firearm reproductions, Emig also does repair and restoration of antique and contemporary muzzleloaders.

A fourth tour participant in Hallam is the A.B. Ulrich Tin Shop at 234 West Beaver Street. In business just a year, Axel Ulrich specializes in tinplate reproductions of practical and decorative items of yesteryear, as well as some design in copper. Among the tinware reproductions on display for his first tour will be four-handled candelabra, hurricane lanterns and olive oil pots, an item similar to the teakettle.

Other participating artisans in and around York County include

- Second Wind Pottery, Jill Moodie-Pellegrino, Red Lion, stoneware, porcelain and terra cotta;
- Tracy Shue, Tangent Lines, York, jewelry, hand-knit sweaters and handmade paper items;
- Southwest Batik, Sue Hawkins, York, wallhangings depicting the Southwest heritage;
- Handweaving, Gloria Oldenburg, East Berlin, table linens, scarves, shawls;
- Ric-O-Che Stained Glass, Peggy Frantz, Jacobus, stained glass creations
- Paulette Flemmens Fine Art Studio, Glen Rock, oil paintings
- Olde Mill Cabinet Shoppe, Carl and Bess Naylor, York, handcrafted reproduction American furniture;
- Elaine Sechrist Grahamslaw, heirloom sewing, York, children's clothing
- The Glass House, Ronald Dubbs, York, stained glass and Williamsburg reproductions.

Additional information and an advertising booklet for the Susquehanna Artisans Holiday Studio Tour, which includes a map locating participants, is available by writing Deb Roberson, 505-507 East Market Street, Hallam, PA, 17406, or calling one of the following numbers: (717) 755-8185, (717) 755-4797, (717) 246-2354, or 244-8877.

Surrounding Deb Roberson are some of the more than 100 styles and sizes of baskets she hand crafts at her Hallam shop "Another Choice." The baskets are all made freehand, using no molds, so each has its own special characteristics.

At Ye Olde Workshoppe, blacksmith Louie Frantz crafts wrought iron colonial reproductions and functional, durable designs like lampstands and fireplace sets. Frantz will demonstrate at his forge during the Susquehanna Artisans Holiday Studio Tour.

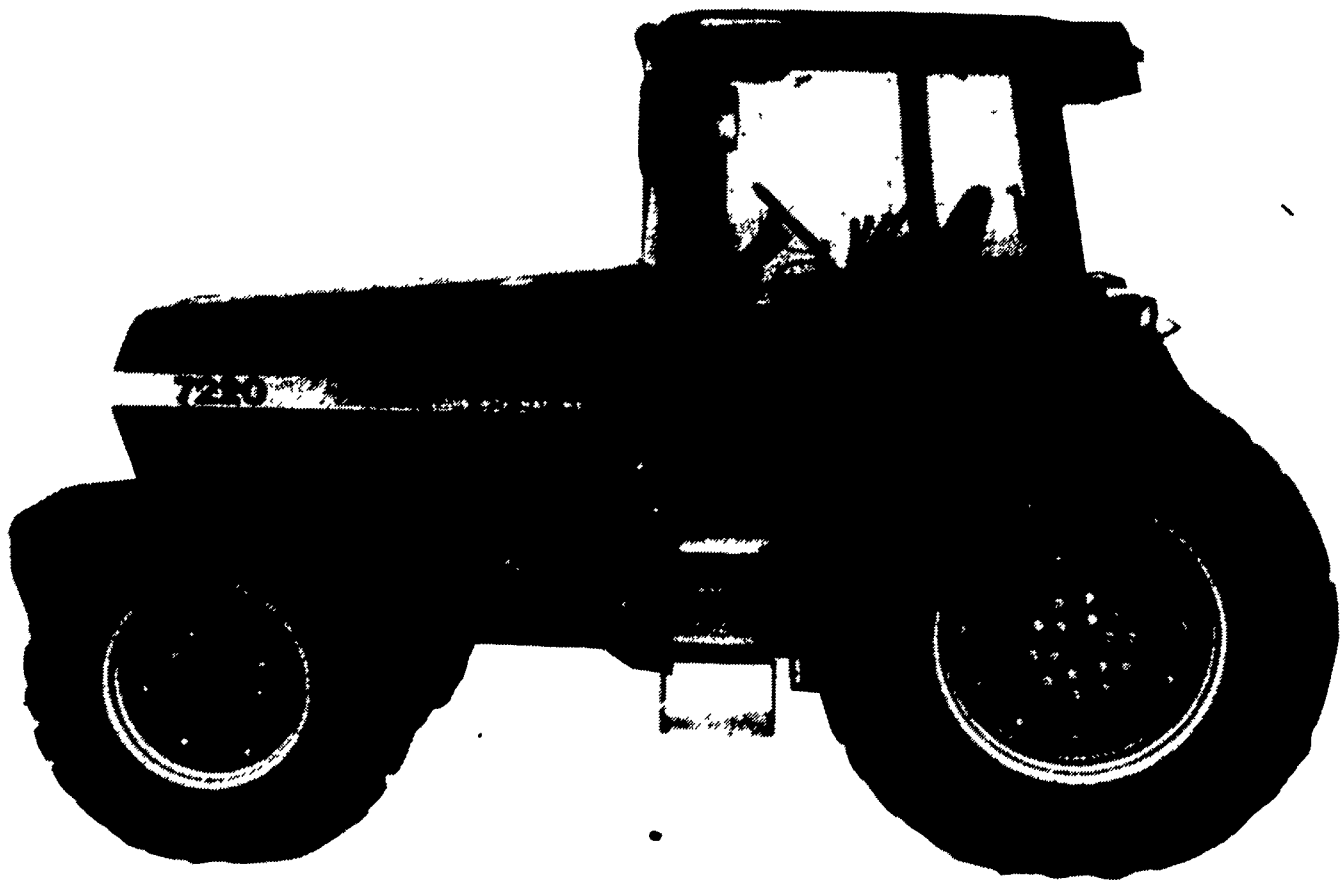
Best Values in New Equipment

... And Now, The Encore



Eight years ago, the introduction of MAGNUM™ tractors set the new standard of performance for high horsepower row crop tractors. The new standard for power and control. The new standard for visibility and operator comfort. And the new standard for reliability and durability. Eight years of field-proven performance would be good enough for some.

But we weren't content to rest on our laurels — we listened as you told us what impressed you most about your MAGNUM tractor, and what you needed to take your own performance to the next level. Then we took the best and made it even better.

Now, with the introduction of the new 7200 Series MAGNUM tractors, the standard has just been raised. Smarter styling, improved engines, refined transmissions, better mechanical front drive, and more.

Why? Because when you tell us what you need, we listen. We hear you!

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

It was a dark and...not really a stormy night.

Actually the moon was shining. But a brisk, chilly wind sailed flocks of clouds over the moon's face at regular intervals, abruptly darkening the night brightness and tossing mysterious shadows all about. Standing corn in nearby fields rustled uneasily in the chilling breeze. I tugged the turtleneck collar a little higher around my neck and picked up my walking-jogging pace.

Earlier, a few trick-or-treaters had visited at the door. Now it was my time to enjoy this Halloween night, complete with the ideal weather and its eerie changes from bright moon to black-lit shadows. These late evening runs along our fairly-isolated country road, after barn chores are finished, are enjoyable to both of us. The dog and I.

Then, just a few yards on the road in front of us, something black streaked across the road. Skunk!

With an appropriate Halloween-scream, I did an instant, still-running, 180-degree about face. Halfway back to the house, I slowed down enough to decide that, since it was so dark that I really hadn't seen the small animal clearly, maybe it had been a black cat, just checking to see if I had my broom along.

Seeing nothing in pursuit, common sense suggested it was probably some groundhog out tricking-or-treating in the alfalfa. Of the choices of small, dark animals to run into by moonlight, the black cat would be my preference.

While black cats figure into various superstitions, Halloween and otherwise, so have some other commonplace objects. The rich folklore and superstitions that are a part of our often focus around commonplace things—many of them having) to do with bad luck. With or without a black cat, you can cause yourself a lot of bad luck.

One local superstition warns that, if someone lays a broom across your front door, you'll have bad luck. A friend who's been sharing with me the superstitions of her family relates that it's bad luck to wash on Wednesdays. (Tell your hubby that the next time he's hunting clean socks)

"See a pin, leave it lay, have bad luck all the day," goes a rhyming superstition. For those of us who like to run around the house barefoot, it makes perfect sense.

If you leave the house without something, remember this: If you go out the door and have to come back in to retrieve what you forgot, sit down and count to ten before you go back out. Otherwise, you'll have bad luck.

In a house with a new baby in it, don't go in one door of the house and promptly exit by another. You'll take the baby's rest away if you do. And two friends walking together must not split apart to walk around a pole—or they will quarrel. Definitely bad luck.

Dairy producers, we must not kill a toad or the cows will give bloody milk. I'm dying to hear an explanation to that one.

And speaking of dying, many superstitions surround loss of life. One my Mom has often repeated warns that if you transplant parsley, you'll plant someone into the ground. More recently, I heard this one: if a bird hits your window, someone just did or will die.

But back on the lighter side, don't set a new pair of shoes on the table or they'll pinch your feet. And of course, avoid ladders, doing anything on Friday the 13th, and steer clear of those black cats.

Not that I believe any of those fascinating bits of superstitious folklore. But before I go dog-running after dark on Halloween, I intend to throw some salt over my shoulder against bad luck. Just in case the skunks are out.

Cooking With Low-Fat Spreads May Be Recipe For Disaster

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — A double layer cake, lovingly prepared for a birthday celebration, is about to emerge from the oven. Unfortunately, the finished result is as flat as a DeSoto spare tire. What went wrong?

The answer could be fat—or more specifically, the lack of it. According to Arun Kilara, professor of food science in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, America's love affair with no-fat or low-fat margarine may be at the heart of many a failed recipe.

"Twenty years ago, if you substituted margarine for butter in recipes, you wouldn't have seen much difference,"Kilara says.

When recipes fail today, Kilara explains, the blame often can be laid at the door of low-fat margarine. "To make these margarines more attractive to consumers, fat is reduced and water is added," Kilara says. "These spreads taste fine on muffins or toast, but if you put some in a pan to fry an egg, the water evaporates quickly and there is every little fat left to fry anything."

Kilara says Americans have cooked up a double whammy from the margarine vs. butter quandary. Not only have health-conscious consumers been trained to look for low-or no-fat products, but cooking skills have changed in the age of the microwave. "The person who buys the low-fat margarine may not realize you have to use more than the recipe calls for to get enough fat content to make the recipe work," he says.

Kilara points out that butter is about 80 percent milk fat and 16 percent water. Margarine is made from vegetable oils that are chemically transformed into solids, creating a different kind of fat, which contains trans-fatty acids. The ratio of fat to water in regular margarine is about the same as in butter.

After margarine became popular during World War II due to butter rationing and lower prices), consumers asked for soft-spread margarines. These spreads are typically about 60 percent fat, 40 percent water. In the '80s and '90s, consumers demanded "lite" products. Kilara says lite margarines have about 30 percent fat and 70 percent water. No-fat margarines, usually made from starches and other additives, have about 5 percent fat.

"Fat is what gives a pastry or a pie crust its structure and other foods their crispiness." Kilara explains. "If you replace fat with low-fat products it is very difficult to get the recipe to come out right. In food science we say, 'Fat is what makes the world beautiful.'" Kilara says cooks can use lite margarines but they must use enough fat to make the recipe work. For example, a pound cake requires a pound of butter, a pound of sugar and a pound of flour. To make the recipe work with lite margarines, a cook would have to use 2 1/2 pounds of a lite margarine or 16 pounds of a no-fat spread.

Margarine also has lost some of its luster as a healthier alternative to butter. One recent study linked the trans-fatty acids in margarine and processed foods to heart disease and some types of cancer. Another study found that trans-fatty acids increase low-density lipoprotein ("bad" cholesterol) and decreased high-density lipoproteins ("good" cholesterol).

Butter, of course, has been linked to cholesterol and contains saturated fats that are thought to promote heart disease. Kilara says butter is about 50 percent saturated fats.

"The pendulum is swinging the other way," Kilara says of increasing use of butter. "Certainly the flavor of butter can't be beat. Mother Nature is much better at these things than chemists."

"It has been used for millennia, so the safety record for butter cannot be disputed," he adds. Kilara recommends using butter for recipes, simply because it provides better flavor. "Don't be afraid to experiment and use a little less to reduce calories without sacrificing taste and texture," he says.

Federal recommendations say that fat should account for no more than 30 percent of total calories in an adult diet. "We should get away from the concept of good food/bad food. It's the overall diet that matters," Kilara says.

Remember when we were told the evils of butter. Now newspaper articles are reporting that perhaps margarine isn't so terrific for us either. Whichever product you decide to use, here are a few things to keep in mind when choosing a fat for cooking or for eating as a spread according to Scott Murdoch, a nutritionist from Cornell.

• Saturated fat, which is associated with an increase in blood cholesterol, is the type of fat implicated in chronic illnesses, such as heart disease and cancer. Look for fats that are polyunsaturated or monounsaturated.

• Remember that no vegetable product contains cholesterol, which is found only in animal products.

• Here's a list of fats with the least saturated ones at the top, the most at the bottom. canola oil, for example, contains only 6 percent saturated fat, whereas butter is 66 percent saturated fat. Palm kernel and coconut oils, although derived from plants, are higher in saturated fats than fats from animal sources:

1. canola oil
2. safflower oil
3. sunflower oil
4. corn oil
5. olive oil
6. soybean oil
7. peanut oil
8. margarine (taken as an average of various brands)
9. sesame seed oil
10. cottonseed oil
11. vegetable shortening
12. chicken fat
13. lard, beef fat
14. butter
15. palm kernel oil
16. coconut oil

• This same list is a good reference for sources of alpha-linoleic and linoleic acids, the essential fatty acids needed for human growth and development. Oils toward the top contain more of these than do fats toward the bottom. Canola oil contains 32 percent of the essential fatty acids, whereas butter contains 4 percent.

• Using cooking sprays made from some of the less saturated oils is one way to cut down fat intake. These can be used not only to lubricate pans but to spray directly on vegetables for oven browning. Using a pastry brush is another way to apply oil in a thin film.

• We tend to think of margarine as better for us than butter because it's made with vegetable oils. To make those oils into a spread, they are treated by a process called hydrogenation. Hydrogenation also turns an unsaturated fat into a saturated one. Not all margarines are alike. Some contain much more hydrogenated, that is saturated, fat that others. Read margarine labels carefully both for the types of oils used and for how many of them are hydrogenated.

• Hydrogenation isn't the only way an unsaturated oil can become saturated. The use of heat or alcohol in extracting the oils from grains and seeds can also saturate the fat. Look for the words "expeller pressed," "naturally pressed," "cold pressed," or "naturally crushed" on the product labels. In the case of olive oil, look for "virgin" or "extra virgin." These extraction processed do not cause the oil to become saturated.

Just remember that there's no easy answer to finding the most heart-healthy fat.

Hunters Beware Of Ticks

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — As hunters set off into the woods in November and hikers seek the wild trail, they must be aware that bullets, bears and deadfalls are not the only hazards in the forest. According to Dr. Charles Pitts, professor of entomology in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, deer ticks (abodes scapulans) will continue to be active into early winter. These ticks can transmit Lyme disease.

"The biggest problem we have is diagnosis," says Pitts. "The symptoms of Lyme disease are so common that many infected people think they have the flu or a cold."

Symptoms include fever, headache, muscle pain, nausea and swollen glands. About half of Lyme disease sufferers will develop a rash that begins as a red circular patch at the site of the bite.

If caught early, Lyme disease is easily cured with penicillin, tetracycline or erythromycin. Left untreated, the rash and primary symptoms will fade away.

Weeks or months later, secondary symptoms such as migraine headaches, arthritis, dizziness or an irregular heartbeat can surface. At this stage, Lyme disease is much more difficult to treat.

Pitts says a major obstacle to Lyme disease recovery is human nature. "When people take antibiotics for any kind of illness, they often quit taking the medication when they feel better," he says. "When the disease returns as the antibiotic levels decrease, the disease can be much more severe."

"Physicians often treat symptoms without knowing the exact diagnosis," Pitts says. "Lyme disease can be easily cured—if you take the entire prescription of antibiotics."

Lyme disease is transmitted almost solely by the deer tick. The deer tick has three stages: adult, nymph and larva. In most cases, humans are bitten by larval ticks, which are roughly the size of the period ending this sentence.

In the adult stage, deer ticks are more likely to feed on white-tail deer, dogs, raccoons and foxes.

"Hunters should be particularly careful when handling game or dressing a deer," says Pitts. "Be careful not to cut yourself and make sure you have no open cuts because you could acquire infections from the deer.

There is not as much risk from adult ticks attaching to humans after the host deer has been shot. In most instances, hunters can dress or carry a deer without fear of ticks crawling onto them. "The tick's mouth parts anchor it to the skin," Pitts explains. "They also secrete a kind of cement that keeps them attached. They're usually on the deer pretty tight."

"Most experts believe the tick has to be on the body at least 24 hours to transmit the disease," Pitts says. "So it's really important to check your body carefully after being out in the woods."

To remove a tick, place tweezers close to the tick's head and pull straight back, taking care not to crush the tick. make sure all mouth parts are removed and wash and disinfect the bite area.

Amish Quilts

Hershey (Dauphin Co.) — Amish quilts, internationally recognized for their distinctive colors and bold designs, are the subject of a Hershey Museum program given by Rachel Pellman at 3 P.M. on Sunday, November 20.

This program has been planned in conjunction with the museum's special exhibit "Quilt Family Album." The exhibit features a collection of Pennsylvania German quilts dating from the 1860s through the 1930s which were made and treasured by one rural Lebanon County family. The quilts in the exhibit reflect Lancaster County and Lebanon County quilt tradition influences.

The program is free with museum admission. For more information call (717) 534-3439.

Pumpkin Specialties

According to legend, Squanto, an English-speaking American Indian from the extinct Pawtuxet tribe, helped the Pilgrims survive their first year in the New World by supplying pumpkins to the Plymouth Rock colonists and teaching them how to grow the edible vine-ripened vegetable.

Ever since, pumpkins have been a popular plant to grow and eat.

In addition to offering an abundance of vitamin A in the form of beta-carotene, a one-cup serving of pumpkin offers 500 mg of potassium as well as valuable nutrients such as vitamin C, iron, riboflavin, calcium, protein, phosphorus, and magnesium.

A one-cup serving of pumpkin has only 80 calories, 10 mg of sodium, and one gram fat.

Pumpkin is a popular ingredient for bread, muffins, soups, entrees, and side dishes, as well as for desserts such as this sour cream pumpkin coffee cake.

"One of my favorite times of the year is Halloween," said Susan Pardoe, Sullivan County's dairy princess.

She has a few recipes that do great for parties or Trick or Treats.

Susan is a senior at Sullivan County High School, where she is a member of the marching and concert bands, chorus, Stand Tall, Library Club, and the volleyball team. Because Susan enjoys volunteering at a nursing home, she plans to study for a nursing degree at Mansfield Universary.

With her parents, James and Dottie Pardoe, and two brothers, Susan works on their 598-acre Valley View Farm where they milk 65 Holsteins and raise corn, mixed hay, and alfalfa.

MY MOM'S DINOSAUR COOKIES

1 cup sugar
1 large egg
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
2¼ cup flour

Preheat over to 400 degrees. In large bowl, cream butter and sugar with an electric mixer. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Add baking powder and flour, one cup at a time, mixing after each addition. The dough will be very stiff; blend last flour in by hand. Do not chill dough.

Dough may be tinted with paste icing color. Add small amounts until desired color is reached.

Divide dough into two balls. On a floured surface, roll out ⅛ -inch thick. Dip cutters in flour before each use. Bake cookies on ungreased cookie sheet for 6 to 7 minutes.

Decorate with your favorite Halloween decorations.

Karen Buckley Becomes Expert Quilter

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co.
Correspondent

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Expert quilter Karen Kay Buckley says she got into her craft by accident.

The Carlisle woman said that it all happened about 10 years ago when she went to take an adult education class at the Carlisle High School.

When she got to the school, the class was cancelled, however, so she decided to take a class in quilting instead.

"The rest is kind of history," Buckley said.

The quilting bug bit her hard and it found a good target. Since she accidentally fell into quilting, Buckley has written several books on the subject, taught about 1,000 other people how to quilt, and won several national awards.

Buckley said that after that first quilting class, she continued taking classes while she worked. Her husband, Joe, was attending the Dickinson School of Law at the time.

After the couple were in Carlisle for a while, Joe got a job offer in Bucks County. Karen didn't want to move at first, but she said she changed her mind after Joe convinced her it would be a good place to open a quilt shop.

That idea caught her interest, so they moved and Karen did open a shop. The shop was successful and is still doing well even though the Buckleys have since moved back to this area to a federal-style farmhouse just outside Carlisle.

The entire third floor of the Buckleys' big old house is devoted to Karen's quilting studio.

Karen needs a lot of room for her craft because she enjoys all types of quilting—hand quilting, applique, hand piecing, and machine quilting.

She displayed her love and skill at quilting in her first book, "From Basics to Binding," which is a handy and comprehensive guide to the craft. She said she also has another book that is ready to be published.

Buckley's quilting skill has been recognized many times.

For example, not too long ago she won a blue ribbon in the traditional applique category at the American International Quilt Association Show in Houston, Tex. That quilt, which she called the "Buckley Album Quilt," beat quilts entered by contestant from 10 other countries.

Her album quilt was a very personal work of art since it depicted significant events in her own life.

Her quilt, which is similar to the so-called Baltimore Album Quilts of the 1840s and 1850s, features nine blocks on an ivory background. The colors used to create pictures on the work range from rose to dark green.

Since it is an applique quilt, it is made of fabric cut into various shapes and applied to the background fabric with a series of blind stitches.

Karen said her award-winning quilt was something of a team effort since Joe did the artwork for some of the center blocks using an indelible pen.

One block depicts one of the Buckleys' favorite hobbies; visiting as many of Pennsylvania's more than 240 covered bridges as they can.

Karen Buckley displays one of the 200 quilts that she has made in the past several years.

Another block features flowers because joe likes to send them to her, Karen said. A large heart and love birds in another block depicts the Buckleys' love for each other.

The center block of the quilt depicts their house, another one shows a star and the dates of their birthdays, the day they met and their wedding date.

Other blocks show the law school from which Joe graduated, Lock Haven University where they met, and a picture of heart and hands to symbolize the fact that Karen and Joe are each others' best friend.

Another big victory for Buckley came when she won the Best of Show Award at the National Quilting Association annual show in Charlestown, W. Va.

At that show, her winning entry was her "Dreaming of the Tropics" applique quilt that won in a competition with more that 500 entries from throughout the nation.

That winning quilt was adapted from a 16th century Italian mosaic, Karen said. It features a display of flowers that radiate out from Hawaiian-styles yellow and red center on a black background. On the back is an underwater scene that shows coral reefs.

Karen's expertise in the quilting field came in handy last year when she helped coordinate a popular quilt exhibit for the Cumberland County Historical Society.

When she isn't quilting herself, Karen is either taking or teaching a class on the subject, working with her local quilt club, lecturing on quilts, or designing her next project.

QUESTION — V. M. of Waynesboro, wants a recipe for sweet pickled peppers. Her idea is to strip the peppers and eat them on steaks, subs, hamburgers or a side dish. She had them at a sub shop where the owner made them himself but did not want to share his recipe.

QUESTION — Aida Mothes, Renick, W.V., writes that she was in Norway, a quick bread that was often served in restaurants was a fruit or nut bread that was very moist. She would like the recipe.

ANSWER — Phyllis Baldner, St. Thomas, wanted a recipe for V-8 Juice. Thanks to a reader for sending one. Here it is with the caution that tomatoes should not be canned after a frost. Information from the Cooperative Extension said that tomates from dead or frost-killed vines have less acid than vine-ripened fruit, which results in an unsafe product even if lemon juice is added. However, you can freeze the juice or tomatoes for safe using.

V-8 Tomato Juice

1 peck tomatoes
4 medium green peppers
4 onions
2 stalks celery
1½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons salt

Chop vegetables, add water to partially cover. Cook until soft. Strain through a fruit press. Heat juice to boiling, add sugar and salt. Stir well to dissolve sugar. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

ANSWER — Geraldine Kraft, York, wanted a recipe for breadsticks. Thanks to Jo Matenus, Dallas, for sending a recipe.

Bread Sticks

¾ cup milk
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon shortening
1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
3 to 3¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
Bread stick topping

Scald milk. Remove from heat and add sugar, salt, and shortening. Blend and cool to lukewarm. Sprinkle yeast over warm water. Stir to dissolve.

Add the milk mixture and 1½ cups flour to the yeast. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed until smooth, scraping the bowl occasionally. Add more flour, a little at a time, first with spoon and then with hands until dough leaves the side of bowl.

Turn dough onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 minutes.

Place in lightly greased bowl; turn dough over to grease top.

Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 45 minutes.

Turn dough onto board and roll to a 16x6-inch rectangle, from wide side cut into ½ -inch strips. Roll each strip under hands to make pencil shape. Dough strips will be 8-inches long. Place a little apart on two greased baking sheets.

Let rise in warm place 15 minutes. Brush sticks with topping. Bake in 400-degree oven 10 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Cool on wire racks. Makes 32 breadsticks.

Bread stick topping:

Mix 1 egg white with 1 tablespoon water. Brush on bread sticks before baking. Sprinkle with poppy or sesame seeds or coarse salt.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

There have been a lot of things to catch up with since our trip. The last lima beans got picked and some sweet potatoes have been dug. A few afternoons were spent putting flowers in pots for my bay windows. There are almost one hundred again this year. I've even put two parsley plants on the kitchen windowsill.

Our daughter and her husband from Texas visited us for a few days. One evening they made pizza for us from scratch and it was very good. We even managed to visit the Hans Herr House one morning. Philip and his family went along but my husband, whose grandmother was a Herr, stayed home to pick up black walnuts.

He has been devoting all his spare time to gathering nuts as he can sell them. Several pick-up truck loads have already been delivered.

After the silos are filled, there is so much corn still laying in the fields. So, I spend some time gleaning those big, yellow ears as I hate to see them go to waste. When the weather is nice, I enjoy working outdoors.

Last week I helped at Water Street Mission in Lancaster. Some ladies from our church spent a morning sorting clothes and hanging them on hangers. Someone else will price them and put them on racks in their large store. There you can buy not only nice clothes cheaply but also furniture, appliances, typewriters and even jewelry.

Cindy, who is a member of the Rotary Club in Texas, took her father along to a local Rotary meeting. They were given a tour of the Lancaster General Health Campus. Here in this huge complex are clinics which treat people for every ailment you can think of. One hopes a visit there won't be necessary.

Safety For Hunters And Hosts

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — When Pennsylvania deer season begins on November 30, thousands of hunters will head for the woods. Both hunters and landowners need to keep safety in mind, says an expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

If you host hunters this year, make sure your guests are responsible and mature. If you have any doubts about hunters who ask to use your land, it's probably best to say: "Make sure your guests know how you expect the land to be treated and ask if they have any questions about the property or your expectations."

Check your property before letting anyone use it. "Walk around your land before the season starts and look for hazards," Murphy says. "Your guests aren't as familiar with your land as you are, so you may see dangers they wouldn't. Warn hunters about hazards and post warning signs if needed. If you want parts of your land left alone, say so."

Hunters should never assume they have a right to hunt on property without "no trespassing" signs. "Always ask permission to hunt on private property," Murphy says. "You can be prosecuted for trespassing even if the area is not posted."

Hunters must strictly follow Pennsylvania Game Commission rules on safety. Wear at least 250-square inches of Day-Glo fluorescent orange material on the head, chest and back. Remember that it's illegal to hunt within 150 yards of any occupied residence, camp, industrial or commercial building, or school or playground without permission. This creates a safety zone roughly the size of one and a half football fields.

If you have questions about specific hunting regulations, contact the game commission. If you have questions about liability or insurance issues, contact the game commission as well as your lawyer.

Kid's Korner

From left, Beth, Andy, Julie, Katie, and Emily turn pumpkins into snowpeople to warn motorist's of a frightening thought: winter's coming! The Golden children said the sign reminds motorists of last winter's 42-inch snowfall that caused 10-feet high drifts on Munster Road — more appropriately nicknamed Monster Road.

Pumpkin Snowpeople Portray Frightening Thoughts

PORTAGE (Cambria Co.) — It's pumpkin time! While pumpkins generally represent the crisp autumn season, travelers who drive on Munster Road in Portage are met with a frightening sign — Winter's Coming.

On Golden Farms, snowpeople (pumpkin snowmen) placed by a sign remind travelers that, last winter, 42-inches of snowfall resulted in snowdrifts that were 10-feet high in some places.

"Then a more appropriate name for Munster Road would have been Monster Road," said mom Loretta Golden.

She and her husband Vincent own the 300-acre farm where their five children grow pumpkins for a money making project.

The children include 13-year-old twins, Catherine and Elizabeth; 12-year-old Andy; 10-year-old Julie; and 7-year-old Emily.

The children have been raising pumpkins for three or four years. They do almost all the work of planting, weeding, fertilizing, mulching, harvesting, marketing, and selling. Their dad, who is a full-time school teacher in addition to farming the 300-acre cash crop farm, their full-time stay-at-home mom, and a great-uncle John Migut ocassionally lend a hand in the pumpkin patch.

The children split the proceeds from the pumpkin sales. Each keeps a portion for Christmas and spending money and the remaining amount is used to buy college credits in the Pennsylvania Tuition Account Program.

They also donate pumpkins to Boy and Girl Scout groups, church, and civic organizations and some school groups.

This helps the children learn valuable lessons in dealing with all kinds of people.

Because their mom was a former math teach, she sees the advantage of the pumpkin project in teaching math skills.

She said, "The kids never have much trouble in money units in school because they have been doing addition and making change ever since they've been quite young."

Wheelbarrows make pumpkin picking easier.

All the children attend school in the Portage Area School District and finished the last school year with "A" averages.

The twins are eight grade students and are members of the school chorus, basketball team, marching band, church choir, and community league girls' softball team.

Andy, a sixth grader, plays basketball, has competed in and placed in Junior Olympics Track and Field competition where he excelled in the high jump and the long jump. He recently completed a hunter safety course and looks forward to his first deer hunting season.

Julie, a fifth grader, is a member of the Reading Competition Team, plays the clarinet, and sings in the church junior choir.

Second-grader Emily is a member of the student council at Portage Elementary School.

All the girls play the keyboard and piano and take ballet, tap, and jazz dance lessons.

In addition to the usual assortment of cats, kittens, and dogs on the farm, the family has a pot-bellied pig named Piggy Sue.

Muscle-building time for Emily.

Halloween Safety

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Halloween is a time for children to dress up and pretend. A time for creativity and imagination. Unfortunately, Halloween and its trappings significantly increase their risk of injury to children. However, there are several things you can do to prevent your child from being injured without taking the fun and fantasy out of the holiday.

"Halloween can be a great opportunity for parents and children to spend time together creating colorful and imaginative costumes," said Dr. Price, of Lancaster County SAFE KIDS. "But, as parents we need to keep safety in mind when designing or selecting these costumes. For instance, your child may look adorable dressed in your old clothes but if the outfit is too long, your child may trip, fall and be seriously injured. Keeping an eye out for these hazards can help protect your child."

Most Halloween injuries involve environmental hazards such as steps, uneven pavements and other obstacles that may cause falls in the dark. Flammable and cumbersome costumes, wigs and masks are also dangerous. Motorists whose vision may be obstructed or who are unable to see children in dark costumes at night pose a particular threat to young trick-or-treaters.

That is why the Lancaster County SAFE KIDS Coalition offers the following tips to help keep your children and your Halloween injury-free.

FALLS

Each year more than 150 children under age 5 are fatally injured in falls. The fact that children wear costumes and walk in the dark in unfamiliar neighborhoods increases the risk of a fall on Halloween. There are a few precautions you can take to reduce that risk.

- Apply face paint or cosmetics directly to the face. It is safer than loose-fitting masks that can obstruct a child's vision. If a mask is worn, be certain the mask fits securely. Cut the eye holes large enough for full vision.
- Give trick-or-treaters flashlights.
- Make costumes short enough to avoid tripping over them.
- Secure hats so they will not slip over children's eyes.
- Dress children in shoes that fit. Mom's heels or dad's work boots are not safe for trick-or-treaters.
- Allow children to carry only flexible knives, swords or other props. Anything they carry could hurt them if they fall.
- Teach children not to cut across yards. Lawn ornaments and clotheslines are invisible in the dark. Tell your children to stay on the sidewalks.

Pedestrian injuries are a leading killer of children age 14 and under. Costumed kids walking through dimly-lit streets are extremely difficult for drivers to see. You can help make your kids more visible by doing the following:

- Decorate costumes with reflective tape.
- Decorate bags and sacks with reflective tape.
- Use Halloween costumes that are light or bright enough to make them more visible at dusk.

It is specially important to remind children to practice traffic safety.

- Remind children to stop at all corners.
- Tell them to look left— right— left before crossing.
- Tell them to never dart out from between parked cars.
- Never let children under age eight go trick-or-treating without an adult or older sibling.

Motorists driving on Halloween, including parents and baby sitters who are chauffeuring kids around the neighborhood, need to take precautions. They should:

- Slow down in residential neighborhoods.
- Obey all traffic signs and signals.
- Watch for children walking in the street or on medians and curbs.
- Enter and exit driveways and alleyways carefully.
- Clean your headlights and make sure they work.
- Teach children to exit and enter the car on the curb side, away from traffic.

BURNS

Burns and fires are the second leading cause of preventable injury deaths to children. By taking a few precautions, you may reduce your child's risk.

- Look for "flame resistant" labels on costumes, masks, beards and wigs.
- Use fire resistant material for all homemade costumes.
- Avoid costumes made out of flimsy material and outfits with big, baggy sleeves or billowing skirts. These are more likely than tighter fitting costumes to come in contact with an exposed flame such as a candle.

The Lancaster County SAFE KIDS Coalition recommends adults do the following to help make Halloween a safer holiday:

- Accompany young children on their trick-or-treat rounds.
- Attach the name, address and phone number (including area code) of children under 12 to their clothes, but not in an easily visible place.
- Teach your child his or her phone number. Make sure your child has change for a phone call in case they have a problem away from home.
- Instruct children to travel only in familiar areas and along a pre-established route.
- Set a time for children to return home.
- Restrict their trick-or-treat visits to homes with porch or outside lights illuminated.
- Remove breakable items or obstacles such as tools, ladders and children's toys from your steps, lawn and porch. Keep candle lit jack-o-lanterns away from landings or doorsteps where costumes might brush against the flame.
- Tell children to bring their treats home before eating them. Parents should check treats to ensure that items have not been tampered with and are safely sealed. Be careful with fruit—cut it open before allowing a child to eat it.

Halloween is a time for fun. You can protect you child by taking these important precautions and help take the fright out of fright night.

For more information contact the Lancaster SAFE KIDS Coalition at (717) 569-6481, which is part of the National SAFE KIDS Campaign, a long-term effort to prevent unintentional injury—the number one killer of children. The Campaign composed of State and Local Coalitions is 43 states and the District of Columbia. More than 90 national organizations are also part of the Campaign. Mrs. George Bush is honorary chairman and former Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, M.D., is chairman of the campaign.

Indian Food Sampling

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Native Americans who lived in the wooded area of Eastern North America obtained their food from hunting and gathering supplemented with the produce from small garden plots. Early European explorers were amazed by the quality, variety and flavor of the foods they were served by their Native American hosts.

On Monday November 21, at 1:30 p.m., Dr. Helen Ross Russell will conduct a Hershey Museum workshop which begins with a slide presentation about the foods and preparation methods used by Eastern Woodland Indians. She then leads participants through the process of actually preparing, cooking, and tasting select dishes.

Following the program, participants are encouraged to visit the Eastern Woodland Indian Gallery where objects relating to food preparation are on exhibit.

The program is free with museum admission. For more information call (717) 534-3439.

Diane Kensinger, left, and Pat Houch helped compile "Das Kochbuch." Recipes for the pumpkin bread, copper coin salad, and pecan pie are in the cookbook.

'Das Kochbuch' Brims With Tasty Recipes And Penryn's Heritage

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

PENRYN (Lancaster Co.) — One glance at the 350-page red and white cookbook confirms that its compilers value their heritage.

The St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church "Das Kochbuch," (The Cookbook) is not only a collection of recipes from the past and the present but also a historical account of the small village of Penryn tucked between Manheim and Lititz. Photographs recapture the days when Conestoga wagons rumbled through the unpaved streets where church and school were the center for community spirit.

Diane Kensinger, who is president of the Women of the Evangelical Luthern Church in America (ELCA), said that this is the fourth revised printing of the cookbook. Each time, the old recipes are retained and new ones added.

The cookbook is handsomely printed on ecru high-grade paper with laminated index dividers and a spiral binding.

Pat Houck, who is listed as editor of the cookbook, said that a committee of four worked together to proof the recipes.

"People who have the first cookbook will not part with it," Pat said of the first printing edition. Here is one of those printed exactly as it appeared in the original cookbook, which was probably printed about 1940. The recipe requires some Bible knowledge. If you don't know the answers, check at the end of the recipe.

A SPICE CAKE

1. Find out the number of sons Zebedee had with him when mending their nets and you will have the number of cups of brown sugar to use ————.

2. Take the number of camels Abraham's oldest servant took on his journey to find Rebekah for a wife for Isaac and subtract the number of letters of an apostle to whom it was said: "Behold an Israelite in whom is no guile," and you will have the number of cups of sweet milk you are to use ———— ————.

3. Take the number of fishes and divide the number of loaves when Jesus fed the 5,000. This will give you the exact amount of cups of flour to use.

4. To find the number of eggs, you take the number of days Paul stayed with Publius at Melita. They must be well beaten ———— ————.

5. To find the number of eggs, you take the number of days Paul stayed with Publius at Melita. They must be well beaten ———— ——.

6. Last but not least, find out what Herod had sworn he would give the daughter of Herodias, then take 2 cups and fill each one with the given promise and you have just the correct amount of each butter and lard.

ANSWERS: 1) 2 cups brown sugar, 2) 1 cup sweet milk, 3) 2½ cups flour, 4) 3 eggs, 5) 2 teaspoons baking powder, 6) 1 cup butter and 1 cup lard.

One of the newer categories is the Kids Korner section. Most of these recipes, submitted by children, are recipes that children can make themselves or with a little supervision, depending on their ability. It also includes recipes for magic modeling goop and play clay.

The majority of the pages are filled with old favorites such as Pecan Pie and new ones such as Dannon Muffins.

Proceeds from the cookbook support many needs both locally and faraway. One is providing "busy bags" for children to use during worship services at the church. Also purchased are the Davey and Goliath videos for the church library. On Ingathering Sunday, ELCA donate items and money to Lutheran World Relief, an overseas relief effort. They collect items and money for layettes to be sent to Rwanda. The also help to support the shelter for abused women.

The women's committee sponsor a bimonthly Bible Study for women and schedules special speakers on such subjects as stress management, parenting skills, self-defense and even car mechanics. They have formed a parents group that organizes a weekly play group and annually sponsors CPR training, holiday babsitting services, and fun activities.

For a copy of the cookbook, send a check for $16.48 to WELCA, 1258 Newport Rd., Box 125, Penryn, PA 17564. For more information, call (717) 665-6093.

Eat To Live, Live To Eat

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Did you know that the average person eats the fat equivalent of 22 pats of butter daily?

Of course, people aren't actually sitting down and eating pats of butter. Instead, they are mostly eating fat in processed foods such as snacks of crackers, chips, and French fries.

Recently Paula Lewenberger, a registered dietician, held a workshop at the Lebanon County Extension Office. The focus was on Eat to Live in order to give participants good basic nutrition.

Workshop participants learned how to read the new nutrition labels that are required by law, how to choose nutritious and lower fat foods, and how to adapt their own recipes to make food with lower fat content.

Recent studies point more and more to fat intake being the culprit in weight gain. The same amount of calories from carbohydrates results in less weight gain from those in fat calories.

It has been estimated that 53 percent of Americans eat more cholesterol than they should and have high cholesterol levels.

The average American eats 89 grams of fat compared with the 65 grams suggested for a 2,000 daily caloric intake. If you hold to less than 2,000 calories a day, the grams of fat should be less than 65 grams. Preferrably a sedentary woman should have about 1,600 calories with 53 grams of fat. If you are on a restricted diet for cholesterol control, your fat intake should be even less.

The four foods highest in cholesterol are liver, brain, kidney, and caviar. But you don't need to eat foods containing cholesterol to make your own cholesterol levels rise.

Saturated fat is the biggest culprit. While you need to eat meat and some foods that contain saturated fats, these may be lowered considerably by substituting such items as canola oil for shortening or palm oil.

Food labels differentiate between saturated fat and fat that is unsaturated or monsaturated. For complete information on understanding food labels and the three different types of fat, contact your county Penn State extension office.

"Diet is only one of many factors that can reduce the risk of certain diseases. The relationship between diet and disease is complex and must be viewed in the context of overall lifestyle," Lewenberger said.

Here are some ideas to reduce fat in your diet.

- Fat in recipes may be greatly reduced by substituting vegetable oil for lard or shortening. In cakes, muffins, and brownies, substitute applesauce for the amount of shortening, butter or margarine.
- Replace cream and whole milk with skim.
- Steam, boil, bake, or microwave vegetables rather than fry.
- Season vegetables with herbs and spices instead of fatty sauces, butter or margarine.
- Try flavored vinegars or lemon juice on salads or use smaller servings of oil-based or lowfat salad dressings.
- Use vegetable oil in place of solid shortening, margarine, and butter whenever possible. Use less oil than shortening in baked products.
- Try whole-grain flours to enhance flavors of baked goods made with less fat and cholesterol-containing ingredients.
- Replace whole milk with lowfat or skim milk in puddings, soups, and baked products.
- Substitute plain lowfat yogurt of blender-whipped lowfat cottage cheese for sour cream or mayonnaise. Compare the fat and calories for each cup of the following.

Low-fat yogurt — 140 calories and 4 grams fat

Non-fat yogurt — 110 calories 0 grams fat

Regular sour cream — 480 calories, 48 grams fat

Light sour cream — 220 calories, 32 grams fat

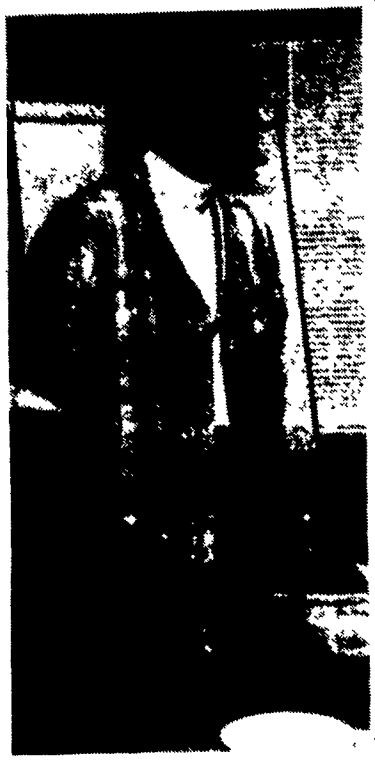
Fat free sour cream — 120 calories, 0 grams fat

Regular Miracle Whip — 1,120 calories, 112 grams fat

Light Miracle Whip — 720 calories, 64 grams fat.

Miracle Whip Free — 192 calories and 0 grams fat.

- Choose lean cuts of meat and trim fat from meat before and after cooking. Remove skin from poultry before or after cooking.
- Roast, bake, broil or simmer meat, poultry or fish rather than fry.
- Cook meat or poultry on a rack so the fat will drain off. Use a nonstick pan for cooking so added fat is unnessary.
- Chill meat or poultry broth until the fat becomes solid. Spoon off the fat before using the broth.
- Limit egg yolks when making scrambled eggs. Use additional egg whites for larger servings.
- To lower cholesterol, try substituting egg whites in recipes calling for whole eggs. Use two egg whites in place of each whole egg in muffins, cookies, and puddings.



Paula Leuenberger, a registered dietician, teaches a free program "Eat to Live — Live to Eat" at the Lebanon County Extension office. The same program is repeated six times every month. Call (717) 270-4391 if you want to attend. Here she offers samples of dip to participants to compare. One is made with lowfat ingredients and the other with high fat ingredients.

For lower fat brownies, use a box mix but substitute the vegetable oil by using an equal amount of either applesauce or plain lowfat yogurt.

You can learn to adapt your recipes. Compare these two recipes to grasp the idea of how recipes can be changed for lower fat content.

OLD-FASHIONED CARROT CAKE
16 servings

2 cups grated carrots
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1 cup whole-wheat flour
1½ teaspoon baking powder
1½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
8-ounces crushed pineapple
3 eggs
1½ cups light-brown
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1¼ cups oil

Frosting:
3 cups confectioners' sugar
6-ounces unsalted butter, at room temperature
8-ounces cream cheese, at room temperature
Salt

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Butter and flour two 9-inch cake pans. Grate carrots. Combine pecans with ¼ cup flour. Combine the remaining 1¼ cups all-purpose flour, the whole wheat flour, baking powder, soda, salt, cinnamon, and nutmeg.

Drain pineapple, reserving 2 tablespoons juice. With an electric mixer set at medium speed, beat eggs until foamy. Beat in sugar and vanilla until smooth. Add oil slowly, beating all the while. Reduce speed and beat in flour mixture. With a spoon, stir in the carrots, pineapples, the reserved juice and the floured pecans. Put batter in prepared pans. Bake until a toothpick stuck in the center comes out clean, about 30 minutes. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pans and cool completely.

Frosting: Sift the confectioners' sugar. With an electric mixer set at medium-low speed, beat butter. Cream cheese and a pinch of salt until completely smooth. Reduce speed to low and gradually beat the sugar into the cream-cheese mixture until smooth. Put one cake layer on a serving plate. Spread a third of the frosting on top. Top with remaining cake layer and frost top and sides.

LIGHT CARROT CAKE

4 carrots, about 2 cups grated
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1 cup whole-wheat flour
1½ teaspoon baking powder
1½ teapsoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 eggs
2 egg whites
1½ cups light-brown sugar
¼ cup oil
1 cup applesauce
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
8-ounces crushed pineapple, drained
½ cup raisins

Frosting:
3½ cups confectioners' sugar
8-ounces light processed cream cheese

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Spray two 9-inch cake pans with nonstick cooking spray. Grate carrots. Combine both flours, baking powder, soda, salt, cinnamon, and nutmeg. With an electric mixer set at medium speed, beat eggs and egg whites until foamy. Beat in sugar. Gradually add oil. Beat in applesauce and vanilla. Reduce speed and beat in flour mixture. Stir in carrots, pineapple, and raisins. Put batter in prepared pans. Bake until a toothpick stuck into the center comes out clean, about 30 minutes. Cool in pans 10 minutes. Remove and cool completely.

Frosting: Sift confectioner's sugar. With a spoon, gradually beat the sifted sugar into the cream cheese. Do not use an electric mixer as it will soften cheese too much. Spread a cake layer with a third of the frosting on top. Put remaining cake layer on top. Frost top and sides with remaining frosting.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 18

Lancaster Society of Farm Women #18 gathered in the meeting room of Kreider's Restaurant, Manheim on October 15. The meeting was hosted by Mrs. John Hess. Martha Stoner called meeting to order, acting for the absent president. Devotions by Lettie Nissley included poems learned in our childhood and also a list of scripture references as "First Aid" in times of need. Historical Spots in Lancaster County were named as roll call answers. Committee Reports were followed by a resume of the October 14, "Farm Women's Day" by Ruth Rohrer. 80 years ago Farm Women's Board of Directors was formed and Farm Women Societies became a reality. A donation of $75 was sent to the Farm and Home Center for the purpose of helping the Fund for the installation of an Elevator.

Carol Mylin showed many Floral Arrangements designed by her and available in her shop at 1592 Old Line Road, Manheim, Pa. Two guests and 17 members were present. The Farm Women's Theme Song closed the meeting "Brighten The Corner Where You Are."

Cake Baker Raises Dough For 4-H

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — If you want to sample one of Lois Rankin's cakes, be prepared to have your checkbook handy.

Lois, a 4-H parent and agriculture extension office staffer, has raised several thousand dollars for York County 4-H programs with her decorated cakes.

Her most recent creation of sweet dough, smothered in icing and ornamented with pictures of a steer, sheep and hog, was offered as the kickoff item for the York Fair's Junior Livestock Sale, held September 17 at the York Fairgrounds. By the time the chocolate and white sheet cake had been purchased, donated back, and resold—eight times—$825 had been raised to send the county's state-winning meats judging team to national competition.

Auctioning off Lois' cakes at the junior livestock sales is a tradition that began in 1982—by accident.

"They wanted to have cake to serve at the beef and lamb roundup that year," recalls Lois. "Our daughter, Krista, volunteered me."

To serve the large crowd of buyers, 4-H'ers and parents, Lois arrived at the roundup with 11 sheet cakes. Some were simply decorated with trim in the 4-H colors of yellow and green, while others were a bit more elaborate.

"Someone decided we should give one to Weikert's, who hosted the auction; then they decided to auction another one," she adds. Lois does not remember the final bid price for that first cake, but believes it sold for less than $100.

"The next year I did another one, and then the next year, and then it got to be a tradition," she explains. When their son, Jason, joined the swine club, this supportive 4-H mother offered to decorate a cake for that roundup auction as well. In numerous cases, the final buyer of the cake has generously donated it to the 4-H members to eat and enjoy.

Though her cakes have generated enthusiastic bidding over the last dozen years, Lois vehemently insists that she is not a professional cake decorator. Nevertheless, she baked the cakes for the weddings of both their daughters, Krista and Karena. The first one, she says, was fairly plain, but she grew braver with the second attempt, and included a fountain layout.

A native of Punxsatawney, Lois and her husband, Bill farmed strawberries and vegetables for several years near Rochester, New York, while he was employed by the Curtice-Burns vegetable processing company. It was there that her interests in both cake decorating and 4-H took root.

"My neighbor tried to teach me cake decorating, but I was to "dumb" to learn," she chuckles. "And I took an extension course on making icing roses, but I just couldn't get them right." Frustrated with her class progress, Lois bought a few books on cake decorating and taught herself by practicing at home.

While developing her cake decorating skills, Lois was also branching out into another venture—4-H leadership. Though she did not "grow up" in 4-H, Lois admired and respected what the program had to offer youth. And 4-H leadership fit with her love of working with children and the elementary education degree she earned from Indiana University of Pennsylvania.

In 1982, Bill was hired by Hanover Foods to oversee its extensive vegetable production operation. After getting settled into a new home in western York County, the Rankins immediately became active in the Thomasville Community 4-H Club. Both Krista and Karena raised breeding beef cattle. Cattle raising space at the Rankins was limited, so then Jason, the youngest, entered 4-H, he grew capons, and then market hogs.

"Neither Bill nor I had the background in those projects, so the kids had to learn skills, like fitting, by themselves. The 4-H program teaches responsibility. I don't know where else kids can learn the abilities and skills that they can in 4-H," says this devoted supporter of the agriculture extension youth program.

She credits their children's interests in attending college and career goals to 4-H; Krista is employed by Ciba-Geiby and Jason attends the York campus of Penn State.

With Jason about to "graduate" from 4-H, Lois Rankin's 4-H role as an active and supportive parent was drawing toward a close last year. Then, an extension office job opening thrust her into a new role, as a 4-H and ag science assistant.

"I assist," she quips, in summing up her responsibilities, primarily in extension and 4-H livestock programs, as well as public relations activities.

Lois also serves as coordinator of York County's Gypsy Moth Program, monitoring population levels of the destructive woodlot insect and working with areas determined to warrant spray applications for its control.

"Gypsy moth infestations are becoming a problem again," she says. "We're projecting them to be worse next year because of some 'hot spots' that are around, and so they're expected to spread. All the conditions appeared to be right for them this year in York County."

"Kids are my interest," she says adamantly, adding with a grin "And now I can stay in 4-H."

A tradition at York 4-H livestock roundup sales is the auctioning of a cake baked and decorated by Lois Rankin. The cake sales have generated thousands of dollars of support for special 4-H livestock programs.

Tom Ridge will take an axe to DER

Guess who's copying his master plan.

Tom Ridge, Republican candidate for governor, promises rural voters a new DER that will be "a partner of farmers rather than prosecutor".

Tom Ridge, Republican candidate for governor, has been hammering at DER's gross mismanagement and bully boy tactics since June 18, 1993 when he originally announced plans to revamp DER.

First and foremost, said Ridge at the time, is the need to split DER into two smaller, more responsive departments.

So guess who stole a page out of the Ridge master plan at this late date? You got it. His opponent, Mark Singel.

The Lieutenant Governor also wants to break up DER, he told farm reporters at Ag Progress Days. But Singel didn't seem to have the first clue on the how or where. Not even after 14 months of studying the Ridge proposals.

As Singel explained it to the farm press, "We are taking a look at moving the (resource) development aspects (of DER) into different realm, whether into the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Commerce or somewhere else, remains to be seen". His old pal Bill Clinton couldn't have said it better.

Tom Ridge has no such doubts about overhauling DER. Never did. Here's the time table for his first week as governor:

Speed up permits. On day one as governor Ridge will issue an executive order to turbo-charge the DER permit process. "We shouldn't make farmers wait months before using their land," Ridge says.

Seek farmer advice. Ridge also will order DER to involve farmers and others in decision making before regulations are written. Result: fairer, more workable regs.

Downsize DER. During week one, Governor Ridge will work closely with legislative leaders to split DER into two departments. One to handle environmental protection, the other to oversee state parks and forests.

"We can protect the environment without crippling the farmer's ability to compete," Ridge insists.

Count on it.

COMPARISON BETWEEN DIFFERENT METHODS OF INDUCED MOLTING AND THEIR INFLUENCE ON THE IMMUNE RESPONSES

Poultry Science Dept.

Dr. Abdulrahman Atta
*M.S. Candidate
Visiting Research Associate

We previously reported in Lancaster Farming (39 15 :C8, Feb. 19, 1994) the results of the different methods of induced molting on second cycle performance:

• Conventional method: withhold feed and water for two days, followed by water AD LIB, limited feed for 60 days, and 8 hours of light per day.

• California method, which has a longer fasting period.

• Zinc added to the ration at 20,000 ppm for five days, followed by normal feed, water and light.

Performance was best in the second cycle of hens in the conventional group.

One of the concerns of induced molting to obtain a second cycle from laying hens is possible impaired immunity, which could result in a decrease in disease resistance. The immune response is the first defense mechanism against invasion of microorganisms. Therefore, we decided to study the immune response of hens that were exposed to the three different methods of induced molting.

In order to measure the immune response, the total circulating white blood cells (WBC), antibody production against sheep red blood cells (SRBC), and activities of lymphocytes (a type of white blood cell) were measured at 0, two, five, 10 and 30 days after beginning the molting procedure. In addition, the same parameters were measured at 50-60 percent egg production as well as at peak egg production.

The activity of B- and T-lymphocytes was also studied. (B-lymphocytes are involved in antibody or humoral immunity and T-lymphocytes are involved in cell-mediated immunity.)

Overall average of circulating WBC was higher in the conventional group than in the other groups, which included a control group (no molting was induced). Furthermore, it was found that antibody production against SRBC was not inhibited in any of the hens that received different methods of induced molting when compared to hens from the control group. As a matter of fact, hens in the conventional group had slightly higher antibody production than the control hens. The activity of T-lymphocytes was similar in all groups, including the control hens.

Therefore, it is very clear from our results that there is no adverse effect on immunity from any of the three methods used to induce force molting. In particular, using the conventional method could result in some enhancement in the immune response.

In conclusion, based on the production data as well as the data on the immune response, we recommend the use of the conventional method whenever there is a need for induced molting to obtain a second cycle from laying hens.

Northrup King To Expand Availability Of System

GOLDEN VALLEY, Minn. — Northrup King Co. will expand availability of its new Load & Go™ Seed Handling System to corn and soybean growers throughout the U.S. in 1995. The move follows a successful pilot program conducted with growers in the Midwest in 1994.

The Load & Go system features specially-engineered durable plastic boxes which make filling planter boxes easier and quicker, allowing coverage of more acres per day.

"This system enables growers to go straight from the dealer to the field, without taking the intermediate step of loading a poly bag into a gravity wagon," said Jack Bernens, Northrup King corn product manager. "No one has ever packaged seed like this before."

Northrup King Co. introduced the Load & Go™ Seed Handling System to farmers on a pilot basis in 1994. Available in expanded quantity in 1995, the system features Q-Bit™ containers for corn and soybean seed. The idea originated with five Northrup King farmer-dealers in Iowa in an effort to handle seed more quickly and easily.

The idea for Load & Go originated with five Iowa farmer-dealers, their Northrup King district manager Lloyd Bigler (now retired) and Jim Berquam, Northrup King plant manager at Waterloo, Iowa. "We were looking for a safer, easier way to handle large quantities of seed to replace the poly bags," Bigler said

The group shared their ideas with Northrup King Corn Product Manager Jack Bernens, who worked with container manufacturers to transform the concept into blueprints and a prototype. The prototype was unveiled last summer at the American Soybean Association National Expo.

Massey Ferguson Introduces Stripper Header

ATLANTA, Ga. — The new Massey Ferguson® 6000 Series Stripper Header is a unique combine header that strips the grain and heads from small grain plants and leaves the stalk standing in the field.

This revolutionary header technology harvests more acres per hour, reduces grain losses, performs well in laid crops and wet conditions, and lets the farmer start harvesting as soon as the heads are dry—often as much as a week before the rest of the plant is ready for combining.

The MF® 6000 Series Harvest Hustler stripper header is ideal for cereal grains such as rice, wheat, oats, barley, rye and flax, and grass seeds and legume crops. The MF® Harvest Hustler is not limited to Massey Ferguson combines. A complete line of interchangeable mounting kits lets Massey dealers fit the 6000 Series stripper header to most popular combine makes and models, including both rotary and conventional combines.

Stripper type headers have achieved up to a 30% increase in acres harvested per hour even though narrower in width. In addition, farmers can start harvesting earlier in the season and begin combining earlier in the morning and continue later into the night as straw laden with dew, weeds and other material is left standing in the field. MF stalk stripping technology also gets the grain out of the field and into the bin sooner, reducing weather related field losses and increasing profitability.

Massey Ferguson® 6000 Series stripper header strips the grain and heads from small grain plant and leaves the stalk standing in the field. MF® Stripper Headers get the grain out of the field sooner, increase combine capacity, improve grain quality, and improve post-harvest field conditions.

Loader Line Designed To Increase Productivity

SELMA, Ala. — Improved quick attach for buckets, bale spear, fork lift and other attachments; mechanical self leveling and heavy-duty buckets are features of Bush Hog's new 1994 loader line that fits almost 1,200 tractor models manufactured from the early 1970s to today.

Bush Hog engineered the new loader line to help farmers increase their productivity, reported Robert O. Moore, Bush Hog vice president, sales. The line features models for tractor PTO horsepower ratings from 12 to 130 and lift capacity from 625 to 3,800 pounds.

Moore said the new loader models are part of the 17 new products the company has introduced within 24 months. The company focuses its research and development capabilities on support line equipment.

The Bush Hog loader line features a new quick attach system for loaders in the 35 to 75 two wheel drive, 30 to 60 two or four wheel drive, and 75-130 two wheel drive PTO horsepower ranges. The quick attach system will retrofit to older loaders and works with the same attachments as older Bush Hog loaders. The quick attach system for the 75-130 two wheel horsepower range can be used with both regular and heavy-duty buckets. Operation of the quick attach feature is simple and quick. No tools or pin placement is required.

Combo-Mulch Ripper Eliminates One Pass

RACINE, Wis. — The new Case IH 6800 Combo-mulch Ripper combines a disk harrow and deep-till subsoiler to eliminate a finishing pass through the fields—an important savings for farmers interested in a systems approach to conservation compliance.

"With the 6800, the farmer conserves topsoil, time and fuel," said Bill Hoeg, Case product specialist-implements.

Designed as a primary tillage tool, the 6800 features a caddy cart design with underslung disk gangs supported by the three-point hitch, and a rearmounted subsoil ripper. This system makes possible independent operation and adjustment of each tool to match field conditions and residue-management plans.

The new ripper is a streamlined, true-V design. Standard shanks are 20 inches. Heavy-duty shanks are 24 inches. Shank spacing is adjustable from 20 to 40 inches, depending on the model selected. The ripper currently is available in 10-foot standard and 10- and 14-foot heavy-duty models. An 18-foot heavy-duty large-frame model is scheduled for introduction next year.

The disk gangs can be set at 14, 17 or 20 degrees so a farmer can control how much residue he wants to work into the soil. The depth of the disk gangs is hydraulically controlled via the tractor's three-point hitch.

The new Case IH 6800 combo-mulch ripper combines a disk harrow and deep-tillage subsoiler to eliminate a finishing pass through the fields.

Angus Heritage Foundation Inducts Several

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Four men who have had a strong, positive influence on the U.S. Angus industry will be inducted into the Angus Heritage Foundation during special ceremonies Nov. 14 in Louisville, Ky.

They are Robert C. Snyder, former director of public relations for the American Angus Association, and now pastor of the Church of the Holy Spirit, Kansas City, Mo.; Dale Davis, PAPA Ranch, Belgrade, Mont.; Louis "Mick" Colvin, executive director of the American Angus Association's Certified Angus Beef Program, West Salem, Ohio; and the late Wayne Stevenson, Basin Angus Ranch of Hobson, Mont. Presentations of the certificates will be made during the Annual Banquet which follows the Annual Meeting of Delegates of the American Angus Association on Monday, Nov. 14, in Louisville, Ky.

Founded in 1983, the Angus Heritage Foundation recognizes people who have contributed significantly to the Angus cattle business and the American Angus Association. Each recipient, or a family member, will receive a framed, gold embossed certificate. In addition the names of the individuals are engraved on an Angus Heritage Foundation plaque that is maintained in the offices of the American Angus Association.

Robert C. Snyder, a 1946 animal husbandry graduate of Michigan State University, East Lansing, joined the public relations department of the American Angus Association in 1958. In addition to his regular public relations writing and communications functions, Snyder was committed to the idea that the duty of registered Angus breeders is to serve the commercial beef industry. This was reflected in his writing and editing of feature stories and Association publications.

He was the driving force behind the American Angus Association's Challenge of the Future Tours. Their purpose was to show breeders the commercial cattle industry and the industry's needs. He also was major planner of the Angus portion of the 1971 American Beef Cattle Symposium at the University of Wisconsin. He organized the program for the 2nd World Angus Forum at Kansas City, Mo., in October 1973. It was attended by a record 1,400 people.

Through his work and perseverance the Angus postage stamp was issued by the U.S. Postal Service in 1973. It was part of the Angus Centennial Celebration. He also organized and promoted the 1976 Liberty Bell Angus Sire Evaluation Contest.

In 1978 Snyder left Association work to attend Nashotah House Seminary in Wisconsin, graduating in 1981. He has been pastor of five churches, including his present one in Kansas City. He also served four years as Dean of Southern Deanery, Episcopal Diocese of West Missouri.

Dale Davis

Dale Davis, Bozeman, Mont., was a pioneer in beef cattle performance evaluation. He helped develop the Montana performance evaluation program in the mid-1950s. While serving on the American Angus Association Board of Directors from 1973 to 1980 he was a constant member of the Breed Improvement Committee and was influential in adopting the Angus Performance Pedigree.

Davis owned and developed the Rollin' Rock Angus herd which is now owned by his son Bill. Today he owns and operates the line bred PAPA herd with his wife Carol and daughter Pat.

He is a member of the Performance Breeders group. These Montana breeders successfully market their registered, performance tested yearling Angus bulls through their annual sale.

Louis M. "Mick" Colvin has spent virtually all his career in the Angus business. In 1978, after serving 10 years as regional manager of the American Angus Association he was named executive director of the American Angus Association's new, unique, Certified Angus Beef Program.

Today the Certified Angus Beef Program is the largest branded fresh beef program in the world, with projected sales in the 1994 fiscal year of 175 million pounds. This has had a significant impact on the growth of the Angus business, and has demonstrated the value of high quality beef as it relates to consumer satisfaction and increased sales.

The Program has some 33 employees, that work with 33 licensed packing plants, 20 fabricating plants, 44 retail distributors, 64 food service distributors, 32 regional food service chair procurement servicers, 24 exporters and 12 international distributors. There are some 1,571 retail stores and nearly 1,100 licensed restaurants, and in all some 10,000 restaurants, licensed and unlicensed sell Certified Angus Beef™ product.

A native of Bedford County, Pa., Colvin earned a bachelor's degree in animal husbandry from Pennsylvania State University in 1960. He was herdsman for Moles Hill Farm, Sharon, Conn., from 1960-66. He showed three grand champions at the International Livestock Exposition and the National Western Stock Show and was named Angus Herdsman of the Year. He worked as manager of Longleaf Plantation, Aiken, S.C., before joining the American Angus Association in 1968.

Wayne D. Stevenson

The late Wayne D. Stevenson, an Angus cattle enthusiast, and a strong advocate of performance testing and National Sire Evaluation, built one of the largest Angus herds in the U.S. before his death in 1994 at 51 years of age.

He worked with his parents Jamie and Jeanette Stevenson on their Angus operation until 1972 when he started Basin Angus Ranch near Kolin, north of Hobson, Mont. He was the breeder of many internationally known sires, and he sold cattle, embryos and semen throughout the United States and into many foreign countries.

Stevenson was co-owner of some of the top bulls of the breed. In addition he bred such well known bulls as Basin Q Bar 163 and Basin Emulation 5653. He was also a booster of junior Angus activities, and encouraged many young people to become involved with the Angus business.

A strong promoter of Montana Angus, Stevenson served two terms as president of the Montana Angus Association, and several terms as director. A second generation Angus breeder, Stevenson has children and grandchildren following in his footsteps.

"We've Got The Power."

There's A 'Mom Away From Home' At 4-H Horse Show

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Only a handful of celebrities are recognized by a single name — Cher, Liza, Madonna, Elvis, and Liberace, to name a few. The Pennsylvania State 4-H Horse Show has its own single-name star — Maria!

Maria Campomizzi is the headliner in the show's Hospitality Room every October, and her fans return year after year to pay homage. Mention her name, and almost anyone who's ever worked the show will use any or all of the following words to describe her: friend, encourager, coach, excellent cook, superb hostess, hard worker, untiring volunteer, unique and loveable person.

At the 1982 state show, the late Jim Gallagher (another name instantly recognized among Pennsylvania horse lovers) expressed his concern to Maria that many of the show judges and committee members had not found time to eat properly. Jam-packed days and the lack of nearby restaurants had not permitted them to break free long enough to have a decent meal.

Maria took it upon herself to telephone a long list of Harrisburg eateries and convinced one of them to stay open past regular hours for the hungry horse-show people. Gallagher was so impressed with her ingenuity and take-charge attitude that he invited her to initiate a "hospitality room" at the 1983 show.

Maria brought plenty of homemade vegetable soup, hot coffee, bagels, and doughnuts that first year, but decided she would have to find a way to top her own efforts the next year, and the next, and the next. The hospitality room soon became an oasis for twenty-five or so horse show staffers — a place to get away from the noise, the crowds, the dust. Maria is there for five days every year, from early morning until late at night, serving breakfast, lunch, and dinner, and snacks in between. She doses out generous measures of friendship along the way.

"It's really like having your own 'Mom-away-from-home'," said Don Tanner of McKean County Cooperative Extension. "And if you're too busy to leave your post, she'll bring the food to you or relieve you while you break away to eat."

Tanner, as well as many others, said Maria simply has always been there, and it would be hard to imagine the state show without her.

Like all great stars, Maria begins preparing for her one-woman show long before the performance. As soon as this year's busy show week is over, she will begin poring over supermarket ads for the best foods, then spend the winter cooking and baking all the sumptuous goodies people will enjoy next fall. She will spend the spring and summer stocking her freezer with fresh fruits and vegetables from her own garden and those of others. All of this is simply a labor of love for Maria, who considers herself a "frustrated gourmet cook."

So much can be said about this small, generous, energetic woman who came to the United States by way of Germany, with brief stopovers in World War II labor and refugee camps. Over the years, Maria has shared a wealth of inspiring stories with friends and co-workers. She said that 4-H people have become her family here in America. Her work at the State 4-H Horse Show is simply a culmination of decades of volunteerism with 4-H, including 23 years as a 4-H horse leader in Bucks County.

Maria has worked the regional 4-H horse shows as host, judging-team coach, and horse-bowl judge, and she has repesented her county at district meetings. But 4-H is a passion with Maria. Her fan club said she loves the kids and will do anything for them, including chauffeuring them to clinics and various other activities.

Montgomery County Cooperative Extension Agent Nancy Kadwill said Maria has been known to travel hundreds of miles to take young people (too young to be eligible) to 4-H State Days to practice horse judging for future competition.

In addition, she teaches a measuring certification class for county 4-H leaders and gives horse clinics for 4-H'ers in Bucks County. When Maria judges horse shows across the state, she generously donates her fees to the Therapeutic Riding Endowment Fund in support of the 4-H Horseback Riding for the Handicapped program.

In 1992, Maria helped establish the James Gallagher Trophy in Grooming and Showmanship at the regional level. She said that much of her work now is a tribute to Gallagher, who was Penn State's equine specialist for many years. Gallagher conducted the first interstate 4-H horse judging contest in the United States, which became the National 4-H Horse Judging Contest, and he worked with the Easter Seal Society to organize handicapped-riding programs in Pennsylvania.

Maria Campomizzi is the headliner at the State 4-H Horse Show's Hospitality Room every October. Her cooking and friendship make long days at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex more palatable for the show judges and committee members.

At the time of his death in 1991, he was planning a Pennsylvania Center for Integrated Therapy and conducting an economic impact study of the equine industry in the state. Many of those Maria so willingly serves correspond with her throughout the year with letters, Christmas cards, and thank-you notes.

Although she is concerned that her age will soon limit her work, Maria said she will be at the State 4-H Horse Show again this year, dishing out food and friendship.

This year's State 4-H Horse Show will be held October 28-30 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg. For more information, contact Extension Horse Program Coordinator Pat Comerford (814) 863-3657 or Kathy Houser (814) 863-3668.

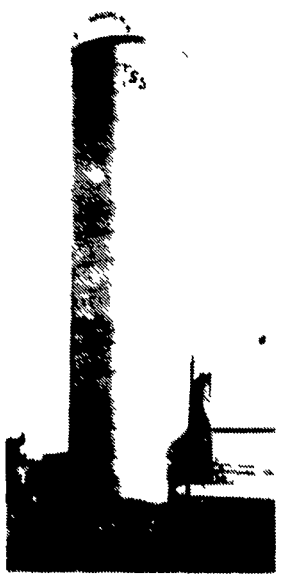
CONSIDER THE MANY CONCRETE ADVANTAGES!
"A GOOD JULY RAIN GROWS A LOT OF GRAIN!"
With The Prospect Of A Good Corn Crop, It's Time For Many Producers To Make Decisions Concerning Storage.



16'x68'
about 10,000 bu. cap.
Shelled Corn
Poured Concrete
No Used Silos!
No Rebuilt Silos!
No Preowned Silos!!

In order to avoid hauling and drying costs, let us build a corn storage unit to preserve your valuable grain at 20%-30% moisture.

To keep your stored corn bright and yellow, you must protect it from oxygen and heat. Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel.

Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement.

BEFORE SPENDING A LOT OF MONEY FOR ENERGY TO DRY YOUR CORN, YOU WILL DO WELL TO CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF OUR POURED CONCRETE SILOS...

To unload your corn, we can install the simple auger system, the Laidig 43 unloader, or the Flying Dutchman. Let's discuss the options, and what is best for your situation.

BARN CLEANERS

Built to clean faster... built to last longer!

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

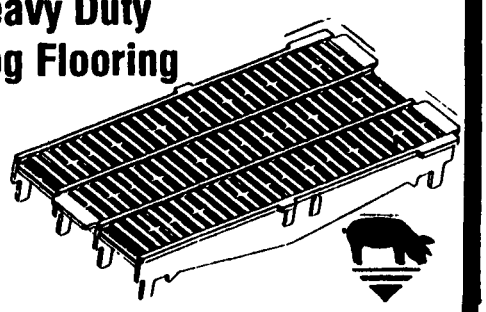
REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION? CHECK OUT Polygrate™

Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.

Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.

- POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?

- More piglets survive until weaning
- Less splay/spraddle leg problems
- Heavier piglets at weaning
- Better conditioned sows at weaning

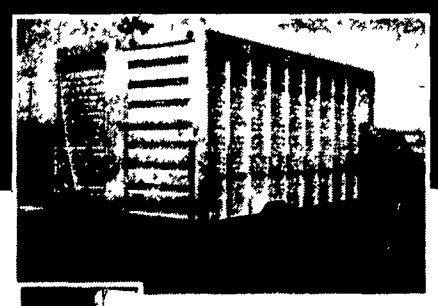
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

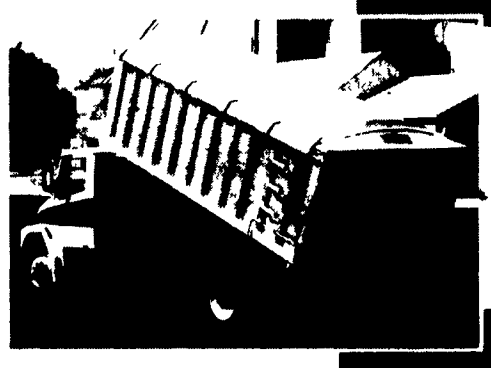
For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.



Let EBY custom build one for you.

Farm Bureau Set

CALLICOON, N. Y., — In early December, farmers from across the state will leave their farms for a couple of days to attend a convention that will blend the passage of New York Farm Bureau's legislative agenda with loads of fun and relaxation.

Farm Bureau's 1994 State Convention will take place December 6-8 at the Villa Roma Resort Hotel in Callicoon N.Y.

According to David Whitmore, NYFB's organization director, "On one hand, the business session of our annual state convention is the most important Farm Bureau meeting of the year. It is here that our policy is approved—policy that will map out Farm Bureau's stance in the governmental, public, and legal arenas. the business also includes elections and presentation of the organization's financial situation. On the other hand, though, the convention offers farmers, people who rarely find the time to get way from their business, an opportunity to go to a resort setting where there is plenty of good food, many sporting activities to engage in, time to sit back and rest, and lots of old friends to visit with and time to meet new ones."

This year's agenda at the Farm Bureau convention includes two speakers—Dean Kleckner, president of the 4.1 million member American Farm Bureau Federation, and Mac Parker, a farmer-humorist from Vermont, said Whitmore. There will also be many award presentations, such as the Young Farmer Achievement Award and Discussion Meet winner, and the county Farm Bureau program and membership awards.

For more information, contact Pam Rafferty, Organization Dept., NY Farm Bureau, PO Box 992, Glenmont, NY 12077-0992, (518) 436-8495.

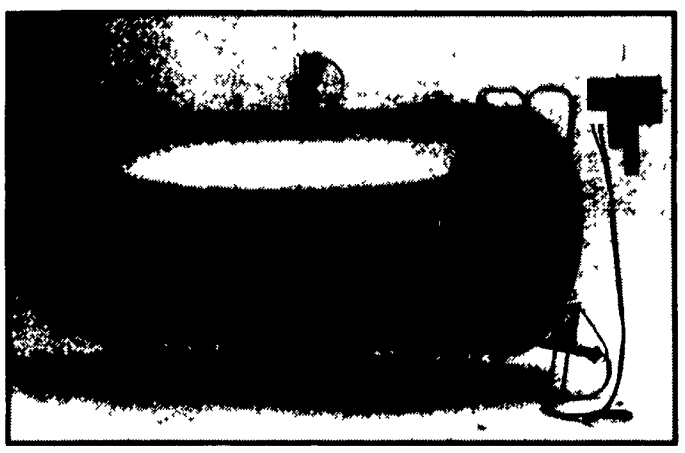
Scroll-Compressor Technology

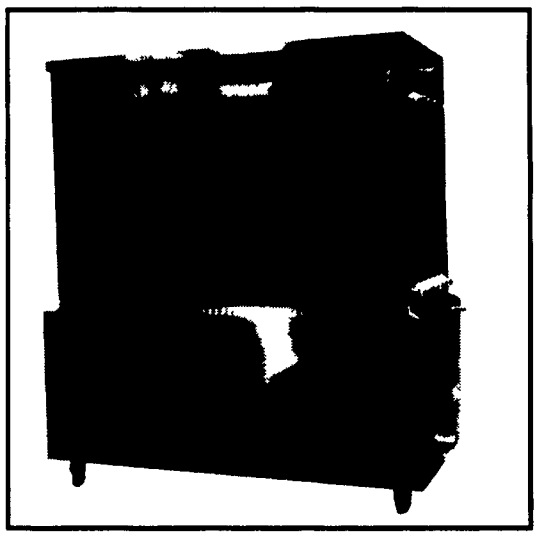
New in 1994

You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!



In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller® milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-priced" milk-cooling equipment.

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk.



Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$ 17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for 10 years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

Mueller scroll compressors have higher energy-efficiency ratings (EER), and are highly durable with only two major components, compared to our competitors' reciprocating compressors requiring 12 parts.

Extension To Honor Jurchak

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension of Lackawanna County will hold its annual meeting on Saturday, November 12 at 2:30 p.m. at the Genetti Manor in Dickson City. The program will highlight the extension career of Thomas B. Jurchak, county extension director. Jurchak will be retiring at the end of the year after 38 years of extension service.

A native of Anita, Pennsylvania, Jurchak received both his bachelor of science and master of science degrees from Penn State University. He began his extension career in 1956 as an assistant agent in Luzerne County and was transferred to Lackawanna County one year later. Before joining extension, Jurchak worked for the Soil Conservation Service and the National Dairy Products Corporation.

Jurchak is noted for his outstanding extension programs in the areas of milk marketing and vegetable production. He is the author of a milk marketing newsletter that is widely distributed to dairymen and extension agents and specialists in Pennsylvania, New York, and the New England

Jurchak's recent work has been instrumental in expanding the fresh market tomato industry in Pennsylvania. He has worked with Penn State researchers to grow new tomato varieties and to reduce fertilizer application on tomato crops. He played a major role in the development of a decision making computer program which analyzes field weather data to determine the appropriate time for fungicide application. Jurchak's research has also included the development of a mechanical tomato harvester and the use of no till methods which reduce soil erosion and increase tomato production.

Jurchak has received numerous awards and honors for his extension work. They've included the Master Educator Award from the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives and the National Association of County Agricultural Agents' Distinguished Service Award.

Reservations are $10 for adults and $7.95 for children 12 years and under. Contact the Penn State Cooperative Extension office at (717) 963-6842 to make reservations.

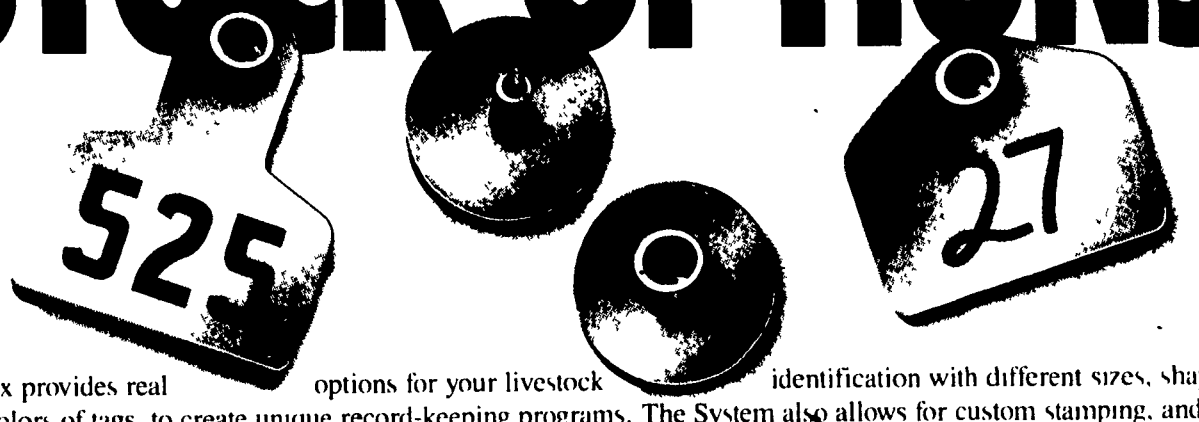
STOCK OPTIONS



Allflex provides real options for your livestock identification with different sizes, shapes and colors of tags, to create unique record-keeping programs. The System also allows for custom stamping, and all tags are available blank for marking with the Allflex Marking Pen. There are applicator options, too; the industry's standard Total Tagger™ or the Allflex exclusive Retract-O-Matic™ that powers the pin out before the animal can react.

Next time you order eartags for your stock, consider your options!

Ag Secretary At FFA Convention

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — The 25th U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy will speak Thursday afternoon, Nov. 10, to more than 32,000 FFA members, advisors, supporters and guests at the national FFA convention in Kansas City, Mo.

This meeting is the nation's largest annual student convention gathering. Prior to his appointment as secretary of agriculture, Espy represented the second district of Mississippi in the U.S. House of Representatives where he served on the Agricultural and Budget Committees.

The convention will feature action-packed sessions with addresses by top speakers from the fields of agriculture, education, sports and entertainment. Confirmed speakers include Mary Fisher, founder of the Family AIDS Network, Inc.; Florence and Al Joyner, Olympic Gold medalists; author Guy Kawasaki; L. H. "Cotton" Ivy, Commissioner of Agriculture for Tennessee; Craig Karges, extraordinary magician; Dave Roever, Vietnam War Veteran and motivational speaker; Miss America Heather Whitestone from Alabama; and Mayor Emanuel Cleaver of Kansas City, Mo.

Olympic gold medalists Florence and Al Joyner will speak about overcoming Olympic challenges during two Reflections Programs on Wednesday, Nov. 9, at 4:00 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

In addition, convention participants will have opportunities to attend leadership workshops, tour Kansas City manufacturing and agribusiness sites, take in the American Royal Livestock Show and Rodeo performances and meet with fellow FFA members from around the nation.

The September 1994 Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd. To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of 3.5 percent fat corrected milk per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test.

Also listed are the top 10 herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top eight herds for Ayrshires.

Farm Market Guides Available

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — As a result of a several-month survey and evaluation, the state Department of Agriculture (PDA) has completed and published a listing of 800 farm markets, roadside stands and pick-your-own farm operations throughout the state.

The guide became available October and copies have been sent to county Penn State Cooperative Extension offices, the PDA's seven regional offices, and to the 11 tourist "welcome" centers located around the state.

According to the PDA, the publication is an update of a previous listing, last completed in 1988.

PDA officials said that the current list is believed to be fairly comprehensive.

Questionnaires were sent out in March and an evaluation process on subsequent returned information was done. About 7,000 of the total 10,000 guides printed were distributed in September for public dissemination. Some extension offices contacted were already out of their initial allocation.

The guide can help the state's residents and visitors find quality food at the state's farm markets, according to state Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolff.

"Pennsylvania's agricultural producers bring quality products from their homes to yours," Wolff said. "Our new guide will help consumers locate a wide selection of wholesome foods in their areas."

Although the 1994 growing season is over, many of farm markets offer much more than fresh fruits and vegetables.

Equine Workshops Set

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — Dave Duckett, a world renown farrier who is highly recognized for his principles of shoeing that are based on the anatomy and structure of the horse's leg, will present two workshops as part of the continuing series of Penn/Jersey Equine Short Courses.

The short courses, offered through a combined effort of the Rutgers and Penn State cooperative extension programs, are designed to increase knowledge in equine management practices.

The first workshop will be held on November 9, at the Hunterdon County Extension office, Rt. 31, Flemington, NJ. Back by popular request, Mr. Duckett will repeat the program that was offered in 1993 and will complete a dissection of the hoof and lower leg. During the dissection, Mr. Duckett will discuss the relationship between and anatomical structures present and the function of the leg and hoof.

The second workshop will be held on November 10 at the Conference Room of the Walgreen Lehigh Valley Distribution Center, Rt. 512, north of Bethlehem. Duckett will be expanding on his previous presentation by emphasizing the importance of trimming the hoof based on the anatomy and design of the equine leg. In addition, the effect of hoof balance on movement and performance of the horse will be discussed.

The workshop will begin promptly at 7 p.m. and should conclude by 10:30 p.m. A $30 registration fee will cover both seminars, handouts, and refreshments. The cost of attending just one workshop is $20. Children under the age of 18 can register for the two sessions for $15 or pay $10 to attend one workshop.

The registration deadline is November 1. To receive a copy of the program brochure, call the Montgomery County Extension office at (610) 489-4315.

Md. Pleasure Horse Seminar Set

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. — The program for the Maryland Pleasure Horse Seminar has been announced by the Howard County Cooperative Extension Service. Participants have the opportunity to choose three different seminars from the nine offered. In addition, Dr. Thomas Fretz, the new Dean of Agriculture for the University of Maryland, is the keynote speaker. He will discuss his "Visions for the College of Agriculture and Impacts on the Maryland Horse Industry."

The Maryland Pleasure Horse Seminar will be held on Saturday, Dec. 3, at the South Carroll High School on Route 26. Many exhibitors will be on hand to "show and tell" about products and services available to horse owners.

The Program Desk and Exhibits Areas will open at 8:30 a.m. and the seminars begin at 9:15 a.m. and end at 3 p.m.

The seminar choices offer a variety of topics. including the following.

• Dr. James Lewis, a practicing veterinarian, will discuss alternative therapies such as acupuncture, chiropractics, and homeopathy.

• Dr. Martin Furr from the Md-Va Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, will offer two seminars: an advanced session focusing on an equine disease update and a basic topic outlining the needs of a general health plan.

• Two nutrition topics will be presented by Dr. Tim Potter of the University of Connecticut. He will present an advanced topic on nutrition for performance horses and a basic seminar on nutrition-forage first, then the grain.

• Of course, a key component in any feeding program is hay. Dr. Les Cough of the University of Maryland will have hay samples to support his discussion of tips for buying and selecting hay.

• Mary Harcourt, co-author of a book on horse barns, will discuss specific needs for the design and use of horse barns—large and small. Equine owners are faced with other situations around the barn such as manure disposal.

• Mr. Tom Miller, regional agronomist for the University of Maryland Extension Service, will offer suggestions as he answers the question, is TS the next challenge for horse owners? Whether it is a new barn or other need, financial management for horse operations offers guidance for developing, organizing, and presenting financial records when requesting credit.

Advanced registration is required by Nov. 8. The cost of the entire day, including the seminars, lunch and materials, is only $15 per person. In addition, daycare is available for children ages one to eight for a small fee.

To request a registration form, call the Howard County extension service at (410) 313-2707 or Bonnie Graham at the Carroll County Extension Service at (410) 848-4611.

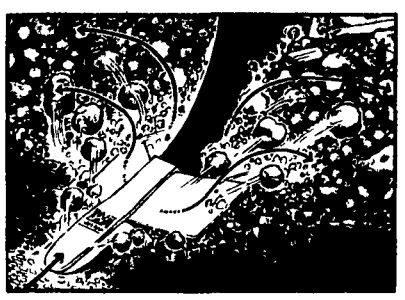
DMI

ECOLOTIL TILLAGE SYSTEMS Solve Your Problems!!!



DMI's Patented Point Makes The Difference

ECOLOTIL SYSTEMS

DMI SYSTEM	Min. HP Required
3 Shank Ecolotil	80
5 Shank Ecolotil	130
527 Ecolotiger	130
530 Ecolotiger	170
703 Ecolotiger	250

Each of these machines can be equipped to meet your particular needs. Your choices include shank style, shank arrangement, coulters/ discs, rear levelers or point style.

Soil Compaction is a problem on every farm we've checked. Breaking up the compaction layer

1) decreases soil run-off in wet years, by permitting water to percolate into the subsoil

2) makes room for plant roots systems to seek and find moisture in dry years

The Case IH Axial Flow Combine: it might not be perfect, but it's close

IT'S TIME TO CHANGE!

Since 1972 CASE IH combine engineers have worked to perfect the design of their AXIAL-FLOW machines...They are unmatched for their combination of POWER, PERFORMANCE, RELIABILITY, DEPENDABILITY, and PRODUCTION capabilities.

Eighteen years experience with Axial Flow combines running on Easter n Farms taught us:

1) You spend less time in the combine per acre, because you can start earlier in the day and work later...

2) The grain sample is cleaner with less cracked grain, because the Axial Flow system is gentler on your crops.

3) You have little or no downtime because Hoobers stock parts and have experienced Combine service technicians to keep you running!

4) Hoober people know the differing crop conditions encountered in PA, MD, NJ and DE., because they have worked with them from the beginning.

CAN YOU AFFORD NOT TO OWN A HOOBER AXIAL FLOW COMBINE?

X-FOLD PULVERIZERS
The Ideal Seedbed

Brillion Pulverizers crush clods and firm the soil for better contact between the seeds and soil. Small stones are pressed down and air pockets are eliminated so moisture can be drawn up from below by capillary action. The loose surface mulch retards evaporation and conserves moisture.
